WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Efforts of the National Recovery Administration to bring the Nation's great basic industries under permanent industrial codes approached a crisis today as coal barons of the Appalachian and Northern fields demanded perpetuation of the company union.

A deadlock prevailed between the powerful Appalachian and Northern group, dominated by Morgan and Mellon influences and the unionized operators of states farther west.

George Williams of Croton avenue believes that the Shenango river is just about as good a fishing place as there is in this district and to prove it one day recently, went fishing in it and brought home nine pounds of carp. His friends enjoyed a mess of fish.

Speaking of growing tobacco in this district, Clyde Barry, who is superintendent of Greenwood Memorial Park, has some of the finest tobacco plants in his garden that are to be seen in this section.

It behooves every descendant of the old time residents of New Castle and Lawrence county to be at Cascade Park on Wednesday, August 16, when the Old Timers Association puts on its annual affair. Some of these descendants are now real old timers themselves.

Local residents who are camping at their favorite spots in the county find travelling difficult these foggy mornings, and many of them have had to get an early start. This morning was no exception, the moisture in the air seeming almost like fine rain.

Congressional Inquiry Into Affairs Of Home Loan Bank Is Regarded Probable

CHARGE NEPOTISM RULE DISREGARDED

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The resignation of William F. Stevenson of South Carolina as chairman of the home loan bank board was reported imminent today.

Stevenson, who succeeded Franklin W. Fort of New Jersey, has been on a holiday in the South for some time.

There also was considerable speculation concerning the status of A. E. Hutchinson, also of South Carolina, who is manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation and secretary of the Home Loan Bank board. For many years Hutchinson has been closely associated with Stevenson.

A congressional inquiry into the affairs of the home loan organization was regarded as a probability. The board has a regulation prohibiting nepotism. It was reported that this rule has not been carried out strictly.

"In fact, three of these permits were granted before I was ever sworn in as director, one was granted the second day after I was sworn in and the fifth was on the same day that my letter went out to the administrators throughout the country instructing them regarding the granting of permits."

Cuban President Summons Leaders For Conference

Ostensibly To Smash Strike Rebellion; Believed To Be Machado's End

LIBERAL PARTY TO URGE "LEAVE"

Will Ask President To Appoint General Alberto Herrera In Place

EDITOR'S NOTE:—William K. Hutchinson, member of the Washington staff of International News Service, has arrived in Havana by airplane from the United States to cover the Cuban situation, his first dispatch follows:

(BULLETIN)
By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—A definite decision by President Gerardo Machado to resign his post or defy the United States regardless of consequences is expected today.

The chief executive, barricaded in his palace behind machine guns, summoned leaders of all parties for an important conference which continued throughout the morning.

Ostensibly called to obtain agreement on emergency measures to smash the "strike rebellion" which has paralyzed the nation, the meeting, however, was believed to be a cloak for a political conference which will decide the fate of the president.

From a high ranking member of the Liberal party, heretofore the staunchest supporter of Machado, it was learned that the organization in secret session had decided to ask the president to take a "leave of absence."

The informant, a member of the national executive committee, said the party had decided to request Machado to appoint General Alberto Herrera, now war minister, as secretary of state.

Cuban law provides that the secretary of state shall temporarily fulfill the presidential duties in the event of the resignation, retirement, death or assassination of the chief executive.

In addition the party was said to have agreed to name the rest of the cabinet in collaboration with United States Ambassador Sumner Welles.

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—The "passive revolution" against President Gerardo Machado, which has paralyzed Cuba for a week, neared a climax today with the island's population expecting early intervention by the United States.

The severe tension prevailing was heightened when a bomb planted aboard a street car exploded this morning, seriously injuring four policemen on their way to work. The car had been left near the police station throughout the night.

If it's only a mile or two from your home or a spot half a country away, it isn't a bad thought to go there anon, and from regular stuff get away. You may be gone only a week end at that, but the change tones you up quite a lot, to seek a new scene for an hour or two, or longer if more time you've got. For a change from the regular scenes does you good, and there's always some new things to see. A mile or a thousand the change is what counts, the weather is warm ninety three.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

You can't tell the bully to quit picking on the boy unless you are prepared to do something to him in case he don't quit picking on him.

Trouble is we never did set Cuba plum free; we kept a clause in the contract where we were to remain the guardian. Take the sugar out of Cuba and the sugar out of the Philippines and our altruistic feelings would kinder cool off.

basic wage scale of $5 per day, together with a single national day, for the bituminous fields, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America declared the Appalachian and Northern districts will be unionized despite all opposition.

Lewis blamed the United States Steel Corporation, a Morgan subsidiary, for the bloody labor disputes in the area centering at Pittsburgh.

"This corporation seeks to obtain for itself all the benefits of the National Recovery Act and at the same time it would deny any benefits to its employees," he declared.

Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland banker, executive and major independent coal operator, fought shoulder to shoulder with Lewis against the federal privileges which the Appalachian and Northern coal barons are seeking to perpetuate.

George B. Harrington of Chicago, another major independent operator, also supported Lewis.

The United States Mine Workers and operators representing perhaps 20 per cent of all the bituminous tonnage were in complete agreement on wages and working conditions.

The question of a 30 hour week, or a longer week, was left open in the national code which they submitted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Bituminous coal operators from smokeless fields of Eastern Oklahoma and Western Arkansas today urged adoption of the general code filed by the United Mine Worker's officials and independent mine owners from a dozen states.

Appearing at public hearings before the NRA on a bituminous coal code, Earl Cobb of North Smith, Ark., declared a single nationwide setup for the bituminous industry offers the only possibility to halt the tremendous loss of coal markets to competing fuels.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Twelve years of immunity ended today for William Elmer Mead, 55, ex-convict and so-called "Prince" of confidence men, who is accused of swindling victims in 28 cities.

Mead was arrested last night by Herbert Graham, post office inspector assigned here from New York to bring about his capture. He had been sought since 1921 when he jumped a $25,000 bond on a government charge of using the mails to defraud.

Mead has served prison terms at San Quentin and in London, according to Graham.

Havana Railway Workers Openly Defying Machado

(International News Service) HAVANA, Aug. 11.—Defying President Machado, Havana's street railway workers refused to return to their jobs today.

The workers flatly declined to obey an order issued by strike leaders that the resume work at noon.

Their refusal was a serious blow to the efforts of President Gerardo Machado to preserve his dictatorship by bringing an end to the "strike rebellion" which has paralyzed the nation.

The workers served an ultimatum upon Machado advising him of their refusal.

P. R. R. OPENS 'HF' SIGNAL TOWER AS TRAFFIC INCREASES

(International News Service) The Pennsylvania railroad, this afternoon restored to service its main signal stations in the New Castle district, as a result of increasing traffic operations. The tower, formerly known as "HF," is located just below the Montgomery avenue crossing of the Penn.

Four furloughed telegraphers will be provided jobs by the tower resumption. It had been closed since March 7.

Schizophrenia, a mental disease, fills one-fifth of all the hospital beds in the United States, and costs $1,000,000 daily to treat.

Some strikers declared their leaders would be repudiated for having "surrendered", but these spokesmen remained nameless for fear of possible punishment by the government. They declared the general strike had been called for the restoration of civil liberties and the civil liberties could not be restored under martial law, a "state of war," or while Machado remained as president.

They insisted the strike would be continued.

May Continue Strike.

Operation of the street cars and buses, on the other hand, may not end the strike. One proprietor of a large commercial establishment told International News Service his business place would remain closed until Machado resigned.

He said thousands of other business men felt the same way and he intimidated the passive revolutionists might resort to force to halt the movement of street cars.

For a solid week the island's business has been at a standstill. The situation in Havana was mirrored in Santiago, Camaguey, Pinar Del Rio and in Santa Clara, Machado's home town.

The general strike began last Friday after a group of Havana bus operators had been out on closed since July 25. The strike closed stores, laundries, houses, garages, motion picture houses, and even the postoffice. The street cars and buses stopped and no food was delivered.

Postmen, trolley employees, cooks, waiters, store clerks, railroad workers, reporters, barbers, carpenters and even the dancing girls in "Honky Tonks" went on strike.

There were no taxis in the streets, and for a time "Gloppy Joe", proprietor of a famous taxi, locked his doors.

A ghost ship on the appearance of a ghost ship as only a handful of stragglers appeared on the streets, fearful of another police attack, such as cost 30 lives late Monday afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—With the hurried departure early this morning of Cuban Ambassador Oscar Cintas for Havana, a climax in the Cuban situation that may determine whether the United States will resort to armed intervention to restore law and order in that Latin republic was anticipated.

The state department expected the next 12 hours would determine whether President Machado would acquiesce to the demands of the Cuban political parties that he quit office whether he will defy both the political factions and the United States.

Ambassador Cintas' sudden departure for Havana was decided upon following a two-hour conference at the state department yesterday with Secretary of State Phillips and Assistant Secretary of State Caffery.

Indicating the seriousness of the situation, a curtain of silence was drawn around the conference and the reason for the Cuban ambassador's departure. State department officials declared the situation was such as to prevent disclosure of the conversation which took place with Ambassador Cintas while all that latter would disclose was that it concerned "economic" matters as well as political.

The Cuban embassy maintained great secrecy concerning his departure. He entrained for Miami, from whence he will fly to Havana.

NO MORE SCRAPING OF LIBRARY CHAIRS

For five cents, the price of a box of tacks, Hugh L. White, janitor of the New Castle free public library has added about 50 percent to the quietude of the library building.

Mr. White began thinking this week that the reading center would be more restful for the many book lovers who gather there to scan their favorite volumes if the noise of scraping chairs was eliminated.

Remembering a few scraps of rubber linoleum in the cellar, trimmed sometime ago from the library's rubber rugs, White got to work and tacked on the rubber squares to the leg bottoms of 30-odd chairs.

The Moores and Collier were arrested in Uniontown last night by Landvoigt and Monahan. Dave Spangler was picked up here by city detectives a few hours after his brother was arrested.

TAKE A CHANCE

I know a child who worries his parents.
He hasn't any fear, and that's why he worries his father and mother.

He walks right up to strange dogs and throws his arms about them, pats them with affectionate roughness and doesn't seem to know that that dog might be suspicious of strange children. He might have been badly treated by them, and might take a bite at a little boy who rushes up and puts out an alien hand. He shouldn't do that. He should be cautious. He should look before he leaps at strange dogs, be careful when he crosses a street, run home and put iodine on every cut, and save his father and mother from every slightest worry. He should, in fact, be a most dependable child whose parents know where he is every moment in the day—and then grow up to be a cautious, dependable man without any excitement in him at all.

So what are the parents doing? They are worrying a little and doing nothing. They've said a few words to him about watching his step and being a little careful about patting strange dogs. But they've refrained from telling him any gory tale about a little boy—a purely fictitious boy—who was badly bitten once upon a time by a bad, bad dog. Their idea is that they do not want to fill him with fear. They do not want a timid, hysterical child who sees bugaboos around every dark corner and ghosts in every graveyard. They want him to be stalwart in life and unafraid of even the dangers that are a part of it. They risk their child reasonably because risk can be one of the encouraging, strengthening, character-making elements in life and they want him to have all that is coming to him.

Because you cannot save anybody from life. You cannot even save yourself. You must take your chances. You cannot be sure of a minute, an hour, a day. You cannot be sure of health. You cannot be sure of money. Nor of how long you'll live, nor where you'll die. . . . You can take a fair amount of precaution and let it go at that. And the small boy who pats a strange dog MAY get growl, or he may get a friendly wag of the tail. . . . And the friendly wag is worth the risk of a growl.

DO SOMETHING WELL

You may think you are too big for the small job you are filling. But you are not.

You may be capable of meeting the demands of a larger and more important place, but if you are not making the most of the place you have, you are not big enough for it. Too often, because of industrial conditions, men make little effort to expand their unimportant positions to really important ones.

They seem to think that there is little use of going up the ladder, because in these times they cannot get as far as they want to go. Big mistake, that is.

Climb a little, push a little harder, hold your ground.

You will be that much farther when the times grow better and obstacles fade, because you did step up a little every day instead of sitting still.

The going is rough, to be sure, but you gain strength by combat. Strength and experience—practice—and away you go when the opportunity comes.

You will be judged by what you do while times are hard, do you know it?

If you sit down and don't try, you get soft and no one wants you.

There is work at home if no place else, so do something well.

When mother says: "We ought to do your old arm chair in navy blue." Though I am rather fond of red I promptly vote for blue, instead.

When mother looks across at me and says: "My dear, take no more tea!" Though much I'd like a second cup I promptly give the notion up.

When I've rebelled as now and then I have like all the stubborn men and let my will run free and strong. My judgment usually was wrong.

Now for the second piece of pie I've ceased to ask when mother's high.

And reconciled to growing old I've learned to do just as I'm told. (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

DOING BETTER NOW
Every once in a while a story comes out of Hollywood free from the cloying beauty of movie sirens or the vagaries of the "open season" in wife swapping.

It was in the days when Willie

Collier was the top notch comedian on Broadway. Buster Collier was then a bright youngster and very funny with his dad. The two were in conversation when the boy remarked:

"Say, Pop, did God make you?" "W-w-why, yes, that is, of course," stammered Collier. Perse, who, by the way, was never famous for his religious attributes.

"Did he make me, too, Pop?" came the next query.

"Sure," was the answer, "what's eating you?"

The lad did not answer for a moment. There was a far-away look in his eye. He straightened up, gave his father the "once over" from head to foot and drawled:

"Say, Pop, God's been doing better work lately, hasn't he?"

AN ARTEMISIAN SENATOR
Not long ago a Washington lady, wishing to make a hit with a new senator who is a bachelor and very handsome, invited him to be the guest of honor at a dinner she was giving. She is a believer in the saying that "you should feed the brute." She noticed that the senator was eating very little. He merely toyed with the dishes and made very little impression on them. She kept pestering him with suggestions that he must eat more, and she hinted broadly that his bird-like appetite was not much of a compliment to her cooking.

At length he became annoyed and he blurted out: "Sometimes I eat more than at other times, but this is one of the times that I eat less than at other times."

TODAY'S STORYETTE
The local carnival committee was looking for a strong man to exhibit at the approaching show for charity. They found him plowing without the aid of horses. He was simply pushing the heavy plow through the ground ahead of him.

"Are you the strongest man hereabouts?" the committee asked.

"Me? Naw," he replied.

"Who is then?" they inquired.

"Oh, you'll find him down the road about a mile," the farmer replied as he picked up the plow by the handle and pointed in the direction he meant.

So the committee went down the road a mile. They inquired for and found their man. He was sitting on the porch of the general store whittling.

"Are you the strongest man in the county?" they inquired.

"Yep," he said modestly.

"Well, we want such a man for our carnival exhibit in the city. Will you kindly give us a demonstration of your strength?"

"Sure," replied the rural resident, and immediately he sat on one of his hands, lifted himself up and remained suspended until the committee was satisfied. Whew!

National Interest In Milk Extends Beyond Industry

Federal Code In Chicago Arouses Discussion, While States Seek To Harmonize Rights Of Consumers, Distributors And Producers

Uniform demand for milk as an essential in every family creates universal interest in controversies that have developed in several States. One important phase of the problem is the appearance of the cash-and-carry system as involving a question of public policy. The Chicago code, under the Department of Agriculture, is watched because of its probable relation to all parts of the country.

The stand of "independent milk producers and operators in the Chicago area" is discussed by the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, with special attention to Secretary Wallace's decision in favor of "a uniform price of ten cents a quart for milk, irrespective of how it is sold." That paper quotes owners of roadside stands as holding that "they should be permitted to sell cash-and-carry milk at a lower price which eliminates the cost of delivery by wagon" and the DAILY NEWS contends that the matter of sanitary conditions "seems to be up to State and county health authorities."

The Chicago paper continues: "The vast powers of the Farm Recovery Act were conferred by Congress on the Secretary of Agriculture to enable him to 'reestablish prices at a level that will give agricultural commodities a purchasing power with respect to articles that farmers buy equivalent to the purchasing power of agricultural commodities in the prewar period—August, 1909 to July, 1914.' During that period milk prices in the Chicago area ranged from $1.22 to $1.46 a hundred pounds. In the spring of 1914, the farmers demanded unsuccessfully a yearly average price of $1.53 2-3 a hundred pounds. Today, farmers in the local market are being paid $1.75 a hundred pounds, there being approximately 46.5 quarts of milk per hundredweight. Thus the farmers are receiving substantially more than is justified by the parity provisions of the Recovery Act."

An independent price averaging six cents a quart in the Chicago area is stated by the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL to have been received, and that paper observes that "in order to avoid difficulties with the Health Department of the city of Chicago, these dealers have been content to remain outside the city limits and set up stands to which people may go and purchase milk at this cut price." The STATE JOURNAL concludes that beyond any constitutional question that may be involved in the case, the independent charge that the action taken is not authorized by the Agricultural Act is of public interest. The GO-SHEN DAILY NEWS-TIMES believes that "the whole question seems to be centered on whether or not the public must pay for milk-delivery costs, even if it is not delivered." That paper adds that "every one is asked to make some sacrifices now for the ultimate benefit of all" and that "no one has yet even suggested that the recovery program is one which should be adopted permanently."

"Milk prices may be made so high that smaller quantities will be consumed," suggests the BOSTON HERALD with the further contribution to the debate over the cash-and-carry-system: "The proposal to charge the same price for cash-and-carry milk as for the delivered-and-charged article overlooks the fact that people object to paying a heavy price for things which they do not receive. The householder whose bot-ties are left at the door every morning is willing to pay for the services rendered. The expense of those services includes the wages of the milkman, the purchase, upkeep and depreciation of motor trucks and horses and wagons, and a number of incidental expenses, such as stamps, bills, accounting and special deliveries. Taken all together, these are a heavy percentage of the retail price of delivered milk. That a person who now goes and gets his milk over the counter and thereby saves two or three cents a quart should help to maintain a transportation system for others is manifestly unjustified."

"The practice of selling lower under the cash-and-carry system is widely established and rests on reasonable grounds," thinks the SPRINGFIELD UNION offering the argument that "so long as groceries (Continued On Page Five)

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD (Copyright, Central Press, 1933)

FRIDAY, AUGUST 11

Notables Born This Date—Carrie Jacobs Bond, b. 1862, composer of "The End of a Perfect Day," one of the best-selling popular songs in history (5,000,000 copies). Gari Melchers, b. 1880, distinguished American artist. Gifford Pinchot, b. 1865, governor of Pennsylvania. Norma Shearer, b. 1902, movie star. Joe Weber, b. 1887, member of famous vaudeville team of Weber & Fields. (Started 1877.)

1807—Robert Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, made its first passenger trip, from New York to Albany, 150 miles, in 32 hours. From this period steamers came into general use on the rivers of the U. S. Fulton was not the first to apply steam to navigation, he was the first to do so with practical success. One Papin, English, built about 1690, a steamboat, which was destroyed by jealous, fearsome boatmen of the river Weser. The idea of steam navigation was set forth in a patent granted to Jonathan Hulls in England in 1736, 33 years before James Watt obtained his first patent on steam-engines. John Fitch, Kan-tuckian, built a steamboat in 1787 that plied the Delaware river at 3 miles an hour, could not arouse any interest in it here, offered it in France to Napoleon without success, died of disappointment.

1885—The ball and strike, safe and out signals now used by all baseball umpires were invented. Umpire A. McNichol, officiating at a game between St. Louis and Columbus, contracted a sore throat, could not speak above a whisper, had to improvise indications, satisfied the spectators, used them regularly thereafter. Other umpires gradually adopted them, made them standard.

1909—SOS (save, oh save!) transmitted as a distress signal for the first time from the American ship Arapahoe, disabled off Diamond Shoals, and picked up at station A. A. at Cape Hatteras, N. C. It had been chosen as the international distress signal in July of the same year, superseding CQD. The operator of the Arapahoe flashed both CQD and SOS. The ship did not sink. On Jan. 23, 1909, the S. S. Republic, and a timely SOS saved both passengers and crew. SOS has now been superseded as the distress signal by the "S" signal, which is the international Morse for NGU.

1918—Andrew Carnegie died. . . . 1919—Constitution of the German republic adopted at Weimar. It is virtually suspended now. . . . 1927—Eamonn de Valera, the American born son of a Spanish father and Irish mother, took the oath of allegiance to the British king. Then he was leader of the Opposition. Now, as president of Ireland, he has forced legislation abolishing the oath.

Women throughout England agitated for a law against coffee, in 1874. They claimed it made their husbands sterile and stunted. Coffee was used then chiefly by men, as tobacco once was. Gradually women took it up, the agitation died. . . . Originally, men in England wore neckties so that the knot appeared at the back of the neck. . . . The Romans staged pugilistic bouts as part of the funeral festivities of great men. . . . Animals used to be tried for crimes in courts throughout Europe. In 1714, in Basle, a rooster which laid an egg was tried, found guilty of witchcraft, burned.

Protest Arrest Of Three Men In Indiana Rioting

Protest Will Be Made To Governor Pinchot Against Arrest Of Three Men

(International News Service)
INDIANA, Pa., Aug. 11.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot today was to be asked to intervene in behalf of three men arrested here in connection with an alleged riot which followed a parade of unemployed to the county welfare headquarters last Tuesday.

Those arrested were J. W. Blaney, Black Lick, Pa., president of the Indiana County Workers' Federation, William Dias, Negro, treasurer of the organization, and H. M. Mock, Indiana. Blaney and Dias were taken into custody at their homes yesterday.

Mrs. Marie Widdowson, wife of a physician at Black Lick, said she intended to telegraph the governor her contention Blaney and Dias were wrongfully arrested. Another appeal to the governor was to be made through Stephen Raushenbush, investigator for the state department of labor and industry, by Charles T. Douds, Western Pennsylvania secretary of the Pennsylvania Security League.

Douds said:

"Blaney and Dias were arrested at their homes by county officers and the district attorney, W. M. Rudock, is chairman of the relief board. If there was any riot these men should have been arrested at that time."

H. M. Bell, executive director of the relief board, said the unemployed, lead by Blaney, made "impossible demands." He said the crowd of 300 had broken partitions in the board's office and destroyed records.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Bennie Book, 25, Pittsburgh, today said he would fight extradition to Ohio where he is wanted for robbery and questioning in the brutal murder of Ruth Steese, Cleveland social worker. He was arrested in the downtown district here yesterday.

Pittsburgh detectives said Cleveland police wanted Zeck as a suspect in the robbery of Phillip Treadway, a gasoline station attendant who was robbed of $300 last February. Ohio authorities also seek to question the man about the young woman's death.

Zeck denied any knowledge of the slaying and was remanded to county jail without bail on a fugitive warrant pending further instructions from Cleveland. A year ago, Zeck was arrested for beating Tom Walsh, son of the then police superintendent Peter Walsh but the case was dropped.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 11.—Thousands of dead fish strewn along the banks of the Merrimack river in Haverhill, Bradford and Groveland, are presenting a problem to the local boards of health—and a mystery as to the cause.

No explanation of the wholesale death of the fish has been given. Theories were, however, that large lake in New Hampshire, which is being restocked with fish, has been filled with poisonous chemicals which killed all the old fish in the lake, emptying them into the river.

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Commander John D. Pennington, former administrator for the tri-state district in the now defunct prohibition bureau, and 109 members of his staff today held appointments in the newly organized division of investigation of the department of justice.

As a result of the new lineup a virtual breakdown of prohibition enforcement in New Jersey was anticipated because the dry law enforcement was placed in the hands of only eight men, including a deputy administrator and government counsel and six agents.

Reappointments were not extended to 81 employees in the old bureau. Commander Pennington said he had 75 agents to assign to enforce the prohibition laws in the tri-state district. In Pennsylvania the state and local police were expected to co-operate under the Snyder act.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Wiley Post, the one-eyed Oklahoman who flew around the world alone, today anxiously awaited "decent flying weather" so he could continue his interrupted flight from Oklahoma City to New York.

Out of a murky sky and a drizzling rain, Post swooped down at County Airport late yesterday in the middle of what was to have been a non-stop flight. He was flying the Winnie Mae, the plane which has taken him around the globe twice, each time for a new world record.

Post attempted to dodge newspapermen and the public but the patch over his eye gave him away at the hotel where he stayed. He refused to answer questions, however, with this terse statement: "I won't answer questions. I tried to get through but the weather is too bad—that's why I'm here. I'll be back next week to answer questions."

National Labor Board Effects Settlement Of Strike Of 12,000 Hosiery Workers

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Settlement of the Protracted Reading Hosiery strike by the president's national labor board as a result of which 12,000 workers will return to their jobs Monday was hailed today as removing the greatest obstacle from the path of the national recovery machine in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Smaller strikes throughout the area, including the Cleaners and Dyers strike which has paralyzed the industry in Philadelphia, still impeded progress of the recovery movement. But, the outlook for their settlement took a decided upturn after the national board in the space of three hours affected a truce in the seven-week-old Reading walkout. The board was scheduled to consider the strike of 5,000 workers in shirt mills in the Pottsville district at its meeting today.

HOT DOGS IN FRANCE MEET WITH SUCCESS
(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 11.—Hot dog stands on wheels, the latest American innovation to his France, are having unusual success on the eight railroad lines which have introduced them.

Just a year ago one of these cars was started as an experiment on the Paris-Cherbourg line and travelers, especially French ones, took to them like hot-cakes, finding the products much better eating than the dry ham sandwich found in French railway stations.

Beer is the favorite liquid sold with the hot dog but one can also obtain good French wine, aperitifs and coffee.

Observations
In 7th Ward

Mahoningtown found in Rev. Fr. M. J. Vitale these past 15 months a friend they will not forget. He has worked untiringly in the interests of St. Lucy's church and has sown many a splendid seed that will undoubtedly take root in the future. His sermons have been heard by overflowing crowds every Sunday. He has gained hundreds of friends among the children and young men and women. It is with regret that his Italian and American friends here bid him farewell.

That crop of tobacco growing in the North Cedar street garden located between Swansea and Mahoning avenues is getting along fine; would make some of its leafy brethren in the Carolines green with jealousy. Officer J. W. Wall, whose original home was down near Charlotte, N. C., says that the tobacco should be "topped" now. That is, the tops of the leaves should be removed in order that the plants do not go to seed.

Little Benny Pelosi of South Ashland avenue had an important moment Wednesday. He shook hands with Hans Wagner the Great, Hans Wagner, the master of them all, the unsurpassed, the king of baseball. It was indeed a great moment and Benny recognized it as such. He will remember that day at Centennial field and the genial coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates for a long long time. Those things aren't forgotten, not by Benny.

(International News Service)
MERCER, Pa., Aug. 11.—The Sixteeners' association, a society composed of orphans of Pennsylvania Civil war soldiers that had attended the parentless children's school here in the previous century, are holding their 42nd annual meeting.

Opened in 1868, the orphans' school educated nearly 1,500 children of soldiers who lost their lives in the Civil war before its discontinuance in 1889. Of the 400 eligible members of the association, about 100 are here for the reunion.

Activities Thursday were featured by the Sixteeners' annual picnic.

Vice President August Schutte of Erie, Treasurer Rose E. Tripp of New Castle and other regional officers are present.

Mill Pay Hits

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 11.—Distribution of the largest payroll in more than three years started in the Youngstown district plants today. It is estimated that about 50,000 workers received between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 for the last half of July.

The payroll is 35 per cent larger than the one distributed two weeks ago. The wage increase granted steel workers July 16 and added employment are held responsible for the result.

Federation To Urge Change In License Fee Law

President Gable Of P. M. F. Brands Present Act Unfair To New Drivers

WILL PRESS FOR CHANGE IN 1935

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—Branding as unfair the motor code regulation that forces applicants for operators licenses who fail to qualify within sixty days to pay an additional $3 for renewal of learner's permit, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, A. A. A. announced today that it will demand a change in this law at the next session of the Legislature.

Under the present law, the P. M. F. explained, applicants for Pennsylvania operator licenses are required to take out a learner's permit good for sixty days. The fee for this permit is $3, which includes the $2 fee for the first year's operator license. When the applicant fails to qualify for the license within the specified sixty days, without illness, absence from the State or some other cause, he is required to pay an additional $3 for a new permit. According to the Federation, this is grossly unfair, for it requires the applicant to pay twice the $2 for the operator's license.

New Drivers This provision affects not only new drivers, but motorists who come here from other states and Pennsylvanians who have not renewed their operator licenses within a period of three years, the Federation points out. It quotes Section 713 of the Vehicle code as follows: "The fee for issuing an operator's license to a person unable to produce satisfactory proof of having held a Pennsylvania operator's license during any one of the three years preceding application, shall be $3, which fee shall entitle the applicant for such license to receive a learner's permit, valid for sixty days from date of issue, and if the examination shall be passed during the sixty day period, an operator's license for the current year."

"Although the law intends that the fee for learner's permit and examination shall be $1, this is merely implied, not specified, in the vehicle code," S. Edward Gable, president of the Federation, explained. "The law combines the learner's permit, examination and operator's license for the current year under the one fee of $3, and it is this provision that is unfair. The State has no more right to charge for goods undelivered, or to charge twice for a single delivery, than does the merchant or manufacturer."

Specify Fee "What should be done is to specify $1 as the fee for learner's permit and examination, with the $2 for operator license payable when the applicant qualifies, or continue the $3 charge, with a provision for refund of the $2 for the license fee if the applicant fails to qualify. The Pennsylvania operator's license fee of $2 per year is high enough without penalizing the new driver, the motorist who moves in from another state, or the Pennsylvanian who has left his driver's license lapse for five years or more. In normal times this regulation gave rise to few complaints, but today, with many car owners and drivers pressed for funds, protests against this unjust provision of the law are numerous."

National Labor Board Takes Up Hand In Strike

Will Probe Conditions In Troubled Eastern Area Where 20,000 Are Striking

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt's newly created National Labor board Thursday took a hand in the troubled strike situation in the eastern half of Pennsylvania's industrial empire where walkouts in several industries involving upwards of 20,000 workers threaten to strip the gears of the national recovery machine.

The labor board notified manufacturers and union leaders to send five representatives each to its meeting in Washington this afternoon when the status of 10,000 striking hosiery workers at Reading will be considered. Major cause of the hosiery strike which has tied up one-third the nation's hosiery output, is refusal of manufacturers to extend union recognition to employees.

Scout Camp Season Brought Advances To Host Of Boys

Data on the camping season of the Lawrence County troops at Camp Phillips is beginning to come through the council office, and reveals that in spite of the system which had to be used at camp this year, there was a considerable amount of advancement gained in various divisions of the Boy Scout program. The Boy Scout movement has always cooperated closely with the Red Cross, adopting its swimming and lifesaving programs as a part of scout work, and returns from camp show some remarkable work carried out this year.

Alfred Howard, in charge of waterfront activities, reported a total of nine Senior and thirty Junior Division lifesavers trained and graduated during the camp season. A number of scouts who could swim fifty yards or more, also worked up to 100 yards or better, with surface diving, several strokes and recovery, with artificial respiration, included. Five scouts who could not swim when they came to camp, learned to swim fifty feet or better. Several others were taking training in various of the projects above, but could not finish by the time their troops left camp.

The Senior Lifesaving degree is a rather severe one, calling for a minimum of eight hours' training, with twenty-three tests to be given. Junior rank (for boys under seventeen) is also proportionately exacting, but does not have as hard work as Senior; this being graded according to the boy's age-capacity. However, both ranks are able to render valuable assistance in saving life, and also in restoring persons apparently drowned. The names of the Lawrence County scouts and leaders completing the work at Camp Phillips are as follows:

Attaining Junior rank: Robert Young, Robert Wilkison, James Gravenstetter, John Manos, Robert Cole, Robert Dilley, Bert Anderson, George Hall, Howard Barlow, John Newton, Jack Carroll, Albert Patton, David Updegraff, Robert Evans, Robert Dix, Richard Stevenson, Tom Cunningham, Robert Mackie, Thomas Jones, Richard Gilmore, Frank Blaine, James Pherson, Edward Schlossberg, Charles Kelly, William Zahnheiser, Hunt Davis, Ernest McCandless and Edward McKee.

Teaching swimming and lifesaving is one of the many useful and worthwhile activities included in the Boy Scout program in Lawrence County. Two water rescues have already been made this year by scouts and scouts in this county.

Red Cross secretary Orville Potter has already made out certificates for these graduates, but some have not been called for as yet. Those who have not as yet received theirs, can get them at the council office in the Greer building.

STATE FEES NOW DUE MUST BE PAID

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Merchant and other license taxes for 1933 are past due. Persons who are delinquent are reminded by Secretary of Revenue Leon D. Metzger that such taxes should be paid without delay to the treasurer of the county in which their business is located. In all cases where it is necessary to bring suit, the delinquent taxpayer becomes liable for the costs incident to the amount of the license tax assessed against him. The department of revenue is insisting that county treasurers certify all unpaid mercantile and other license tax accounts to an alderman or justice of the peace for collection after September 1. The law requires they do this.

UNEMPLOYED TRY RAISING POULTRY

HARRISBURG, Aug.—Town or backyard flocks of poultry are probably more numerous now than at any previous period in the history of this country, according to the Federal Department of Agriculture. This, like the backyard garden, has resulted from the effort of part-time or totally unemployed people to reduce the cost of living, it is explained.

In spite of this greater home production, Federal officials believe that a continuation of wage increases such as has occurred during the past three months, will favorably influence the demand for poultry products and counteract the effect of an increase in number of young chickens produced this year.

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A laundry workers code, with specific reservations for an increase in minimum wages, was approved Thursday by National Recovery Administration Hugh S. Johnson pending completion of a permanent code.

To qualify for the blue eagle insignia laundry owners must fix minimum wages ranging from 20 cents an hour in the south to seven and one-half cents in the east with a 45 hour maximum work week. The original proposal of the laundry owners called for minimum wages as low as 14 cents an hour in the south.

(International News Service) PARIS, Aug. 11.—Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador to France, held a long conference in connection with the Thursday in connection with the Austro-German situation.

The newspaper L'Intransigent reported today that France and England have granted Austria the right to create a special police force of 8,000 men under war ministry control to "suppress disorders."

When perching birds go to sleep, their weight stretches a tendon which automatically locks their feet to the perch.

Of that amount $1,156,447 was withheld for adjustments in connection with deficiencies for the period from 1924 to 1929.

The adjustments resulted from the elimination of incomes of subsidiary corporations, allowance of additional deductions for business expenses, taxes, depreciation and other losses.

City Calls For More NRA Signs

Post Office Expects New Supply Shortly; Over 700 Sets Out

The New Castle post office expects to have an additional quantity of NRA banners on hand for local distribution within the next few days or so, Postmaster Lake S. MacNab, who sent a rush order for extra display sets to Washington this week, declared today.

Over 700 sets had been passed out to New Castle employers when the supply became exhausted. Additional calls already have been placed for a part of the new posters ordered.

Expressions from postal authorities here today were heartening insofar as the NRA sign distribution is concerned. They expressed themselves as "well pleased" with the generous response of business and industrial firms here.

Cooperating in every way, the applicants have placarded the NRA "blue eagle" in many a store window, auto windshield, delivery truck window and scores of other conspicuous places. That was the hope the NRA originators had, and it encourages them considerably.

The post office will announce when the new sets are received.

Harry Collins, First To Enlist Is Found Dead

Unsung American Hero Of Late World War Is Found Dead In Boston

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Aug. 11.—What price glory? Unheralded and unsung, Harry C. Collins, America's first to enlist in the World war, Thursday had passed on to that Valhalla of heroes.

He was found dead in a south end lodging house, a victim of embolism, after a losing battle against adversity, a battle he suffered in silence.

Four years without employment, Collins' last thoughts were for his 14-year-old son John, who shared his quarters. John was one of three children born out of a romance of war days with the former Mrs. M. L. Seaward, a nurse in a French war base. Two other children are with his wife in France.

A Harvard graduate, Collins was decorated by the French government for saving the life of a colonel and awarded a gold medal by King Peter of Serbia for valorous service.

Unable to continue because of serious wounds, Collins returned to his country with his wife and in 1917 launched a liberty loan drive.

BEER SHATTERS RULE OF DRYS IN HOME TOWN

(International News Service)
WESTERVILLE, O.—The bone-dry record of Westerville, home of the Anti-Saloon League and "prohibition capital of the nation," is shattered. Beer is being sold here, for the first time in 60 years.

The little town is in an uproar as a result. Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, founder of the league, and one of Westerville's foremost citizens, called a mass meeting of villagers to enter a protest.

But Charles V. Taylor, the beer vendor, refused to back down. He operates a pool room, and cafe.

"When everybody cools off," he announced, signs will adorn the front of his place, announcing to all that beer is for sale.

BLESSED MEDALLION SAVES GIRL'S LIFE
(International News Service)
TURIN, Aug. 11.—Giuseppina De Martini, a Turin girl, who had inspired the love of a neighbor named Carlo Salamano, and would not look at him, owes her life to a medallion of the Virgin Mary, blessed by the Pope last April, which she always wore attached to a fine gold chain around her neck.

Salamano shot at her the other evening as she was walking down the street with her husband. She almost died on the spot—of fright, for the surgeon found the bullet in her clothing and the medallion crushed to a shapeless bit of metal. The bullet had struck it, then glanced off into the folds of her clothes.

A mild winter next winter is predicted—still there are a lot of people who are going to find it hard sledding.

TRACES ORGAN TO CHINESE INSTRUMENT

(International News Service)
PIPING, Aug. 11.—Mrs. A. N. Dunlop, wife of a Shanghai American doctor, whose studies have identified over three hundred Chinese musical instruments, advances the opinion that to the ancient "Sheng" the occidental pipe organ owes its birth. This instrument is made of small pipes on a gourd through which the wind is drawn when played by the nose.

According to Mrs. Dunlop, most of the old instruments were merely called "chun", denoting the power of music to restrain the passions since the music was used chiefly at religious ceremonies.

DISCOVER FRESCO OF 15TH CENTURY

(International News Service)
FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 11.—At the parish church of St. Sixtus at Vellane, near here, workmen discovered fragments of an old fresco. Dr.

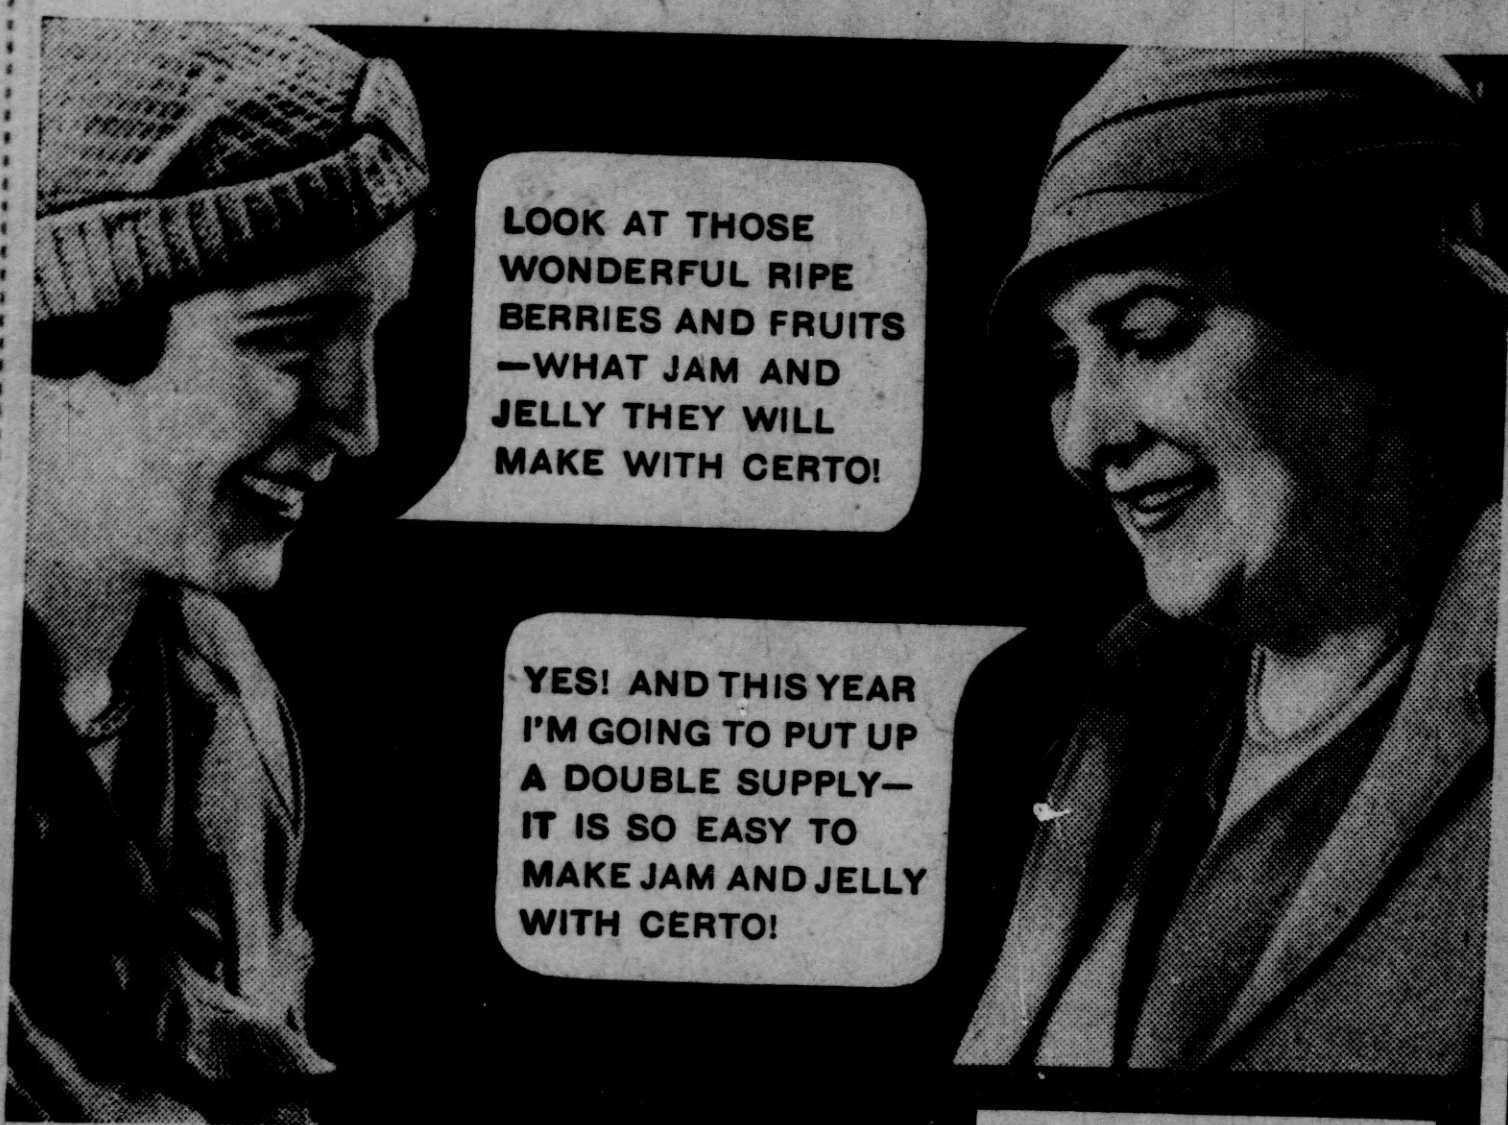

Gildo Nucchi, inspector of ancient monuments, suspended the work in hand and had the wall carefully uncovered.

The fresco dates from the 15th century and is a fine picture of the zodiac in the first century. The fresco is a good specimen of Tuscan art and has been almost entirely preserved under a later wall.

DAY has come at last! For the markets are filled with luscious ripe fruits and berries . . . now at their cheapest and best.

With Certo and the Certo recipes you can put up double the amount of jelly or jam in the usual time, too. Certo, you see, cuts your boiling time for jellies to only one-half minute. And jams rarely require more than one minute. Hence you can make a complete batch in 12 minutes or less from the time the fruit is prepared.

And Certo will give you better tasting jam or jelly. All the fresh fruit flavor will be kept intact.

And because no fruit juice has time to boil away, you'll get as much as one-half again more glasses from the same amount of fruit.

So get your fruits today. And get your Certo, too. That's all you need to start right now to fill your cupboard with delicious jams and jellies—that will delight your family all winter long! Certo is

SKUNK IS LOSING

HIS REPUTATION
HARRISBURG.—In former years when investigation of the skunk's habits, good and bad, was started by the Game Commission, many farmers clamored for his protection, claiming his diet was almost wholly insectivorous. Many of the protesting farmers now are clamoring loudly that skunks have become too numerous in the Commonwealth.
While skunks eat many insects, especially Japanese beetles, they are very destructive to the eggs and young of pheasants, bob-white quail and other ground-nesting birds, and are becoming especially destructive to the nests of domestic poultry.

SWISS TRAVEL BOOM

(International News Service)
LUCERNE, Switzerland.—There is a notable travel boom in Switzerland this summer and hotels which have been closed for several seasons are filled to capacity. In this city alone, the figures for the first six months of the year show an increase of more than 2,000 foreign visitors over those for the same period of last year.

STATE FIRE LOSS

IS $3400 HOURLY
HARRISBURG.—W. F. Traeger, fire marshal of the Pennsylvania State Police, said today that during the 12 months period ending in June, the fire loss in Pennsylvania averaged $3400 an hour or $82,000 each day. This hour after hour contribution to the ash heap, he announced, resulted in a loss of $30-000,000 involving 32,000 buildings. In addition, Traeger reported, more than 2000 persons were injured or lost their lives as the result of fire.

Two Codes For Oil Industry

Try To Separate More Involved Issues Contained In Oil Code

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—With approval by Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, of a modified presidential agreement embodying only hours and wages endorsed by the industry, the petroleum industry Thursday had before it virtually two codes.

Offer by the administrator of the modified agreement, such as he has approved for innumerable other groups in the past few days, was seen as an indication that he was trying to separate the more involved issues, on which a long-drawn fight might be waged, and get the industry signed up on a simplified, temporary agreement of wages and hours alone, pending settlement of the other matters.

The proposed permanent code, developed about a week put through joint efforts of the industry and government representatives, is not shelved, it is explained, but is merely subordinated at the moment to pushing what is hoped will be a more workable temporary arrangement.

Burglars Rob Big Building At Pittsburgh

Three Armed Burglars Bind Night Watchman And Get Loot Of $2,300

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—Three armed burglars blindfolded and bound a night watchman, ransacked five story building, and escaped with loot estimated at $2,300 Thursday.

The gunmen surprised the guard,
C. W. Jordan, shortly after midnight tied his arms behind him, and after binding him to a chair, roped the bench and watchman to a pole.

Raiding the Prudential Life Insurance Company office, located on the third floor of the building, the thieves knocked the combination from the safe, tossed about valuable papers and fled with the $2,300 in cash and checks.

Jordan was freed when the day watchman of the building found him slumped in the chair, six hours after he had been tied up.

Pinchot Urges Strikes To End

Governor Asks That Pennsylvania Strikers In All Lines,
Return To Work

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—In a formal proclamation Gov. Gifford Pinchot Thursday called for a termination of the wave of strikes sweeping Pennsylvania.

He urged both employers and workers to cooperate with the president of the United States by avoiding strikes, lockouts and all aggressive action. He asked the disputed questions be submitted to the federal labor peace board.

In recent weeks Pennsylvania has had more strikes in more industries than at any time in its history. Both the governor and Mrs. Pinchot frequently expressed sympathy with strikes. The latter marching in many places with protesting workers.

Sanborn Murder Probe Continues

Believe Personal Vengeance For Killing Of Prominent Railway Man

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Personal vengeance was believed the motive for the mysterious murder of Henry F. Sanborn, railway executive, police said. Sanborn's body, shot in the back, was found by berry pickers in a shallow grave on Long Island last week.

Detectives refused to reveal any details concerning their theory of the murder, but it was learned they were working on a definite lead.

Employees of the St. Louis & San Francisco railway, of which Sanborn was eastern representative, failed to give any new information to police. They said the murdered man played a lone hand in his business and personal affairs.

Forest Corps Youths Have Proved Mettle

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 11.—One hundred thousand youths of the C.
C. assembled in 9th area camps from all walks of life have proved their mettle according to General
Malin Craig, corps commander.
Only 263 men out of the 100,000 scattered throughout Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska,
California and Nevada have gone
A. W. O. L. General Craig reports.
Homeliness is the main reason.
Other city youths cannot stand the isolation and desert. Some won't work and a few have become afflicted with wanderlust.
The camps have been scattered through forests, deserts and mountains. Some of them are many miles from civilization, making it necessary for the youths to devise their own recreation.

"Keep cool with crisp, light foods"

EVERY ONE has had the experience of eating a heavy meal on a hot day and of feeling loggy and uncomfortable afterwards. In truth, food plays a big part in how we feel.

Crisp, light foods naturally help you feel cooler and fresher.
That's why Kellogg's Corn Flakes are so popular when the thermometer begins to climb. Millions of people know Kellogg's mean coolness.

There's good reason too. Kellogg's are crisp, refreshing flakes of corn. Rich in energy—so easy to digest they don't "heat you up." Economical, convenient—no cooking or trouble to prepare.

Countless mothers serve Kellogg's Corn Flakes for the children's evening meal—particularly in summer. It's the kind of light meal that encourages restful sleep.

And no matter how hot or humid the weather, you'll always find Kellogg's crisp and oven-fresh . . . protected by the sealed inside WAXTITE bag. Every package that leaves Battle Creek is guaranteed.

OLD GUN AND FORT

PROVE MYSTIFYING

(International News Service)
LORDSBURG, N. M.—Discovery of a rusty gun barrel and a dirt fortification on the E. J. Woods ranch north of here is puzzling old-timers along the New Mexico border. The gun was one of the early types of flint-locks, four feet long and ornately decorated with brass and silver mountings. Oldest inhabitants failed to recall any occasion for the fortification being in that spot.

WOMAN TOO VAIN

TO CALL HELP

(International News Service)
REVERE, Mass.—Edward R.
Gould, a lifeguard at Revere Beach noticed a woman struggling in the water some distance off the shore, and went to her rescue. He brought her ashore and asked her why she didn't call for help. "I would have," replied the woman, "but I was afraid if I opened my mouth I'd lose my teeth."

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The

to a distressed home owner by the Federal Home Owners Loan

ACCIDENTS PASS 3,000,000 TOTAL

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Joe Siegel of Etna, Pennsylvania, may not realize it but he is the three millionth industrial accident victim reported to the Department of Labor and Industry since the Workmen's Compensation Act became effective in Pennsylvania in 1916.
The total population of the state is over nine million according to the United States census of 1930.
Of this total nearly four million are workers. Some idea of the toll taken by accidents in industry may be gained by assuming that if all of the 3,000,000 accidents had happened within one week instead of over a period of seventeen years approximately three out of every four workers in the state would have suffered an industrial injury.

The record of the three millionth accident shows that fortunately it was a minor one. It is the hope of the Department of Labor and Industry that Joe Siegel's name will not appear in the record of the next 3,000,000 accidents.

Only two presidents of the United States have died in the executive mansion. William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor, although six have died in office.

Land Promoters Will Get Hooked Not Government

Government Will Not Tolerate Any Excessive Profit-taking in Buying Up Land

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Promoters who planned to reap a profit from the government's new land program, anticipating government-financed housing projects on them, today faced the prospect of being left with millions of dollars in such properties idle on their hands. While no official charges were made it is understood such properties in New York, Chicago, Detroit, and elsewhere were involved. Reports have reached Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, the public works administrator, that promoters in certain localities were obtaining options on land which they later expected to unload for as much as $10 per front foot.

Will Defeat Purpose
Ickes warned that such efforts are futile. Approximately thirty housing projects, to be financed from government loans for cheap housing in almost as many cities, are under consideration. These are being closely searched for any evidence of attempts to profiteer. It finally approved they will call for government loans exceeding $100,000,000. Wherever evidence justifies it, the government will refuse loans for any such building projects.

Unwarranted land values, it was explained, would defeat the very purpose of the government housing program by automatically creating higher rents per room.

Track-Delivery Rates Approved

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The interstate commerce commission today held that interstate track-delivery rates on bituminous coal from mines in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and northern West Virginia to destinations in truck-line and New England territories are not unlawful.

In the case of rates from the Cumberland-Piedmont-Maryland district to Chambersburg and Greencastle, Pa., it found the rates were unreasonable and prescribed rates for those two points.

REFUND $6 TO MARKET OPERATOR

Council met in city hall today and authorized a refund of $6 to J. A. Wright of the Wright market. The amount was paid in connection with the 1932 mercantile tax. The company had already paid $95, the maximum, it was reported to council.

Young Girl Will Likely Recover In Coast Hospital

Patsy Kelly, 23, With Late Jean Malin, Fights Off Death

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Patsy Kelly, 23, auburn haired New York and Hollywood actress rescued from an automobile which plunged off the Venice pier, drowning Jean Malin, nationally known entertainer, will live, physicians said today.

"Miss Kelly suffered severe body bruises, shock and exposure, and a slight concussion of the brain, but if she escapes the possible complications of pneumonia, will have no permanent disability," physicians at Santa Monica hospital said.

An inquest was scheduled today into Malin's death. His car plunged from the pier early yesterday morning after he had completed his "final night" at the Ship Cafe Night club. Blair Ross, life guard, dived into the water and extricated Miss Kelly, but Malin was pinned beneath the wheel and was dead when taken from the water.

Asks U. S. Use Descretion In Cuban Dealings

(International News Service)
MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 11.—An appeal to the American people "not to eclipse our flag by bringing Machados bloody career to an end" was issued here today by General Mario G. Menocal, leader of a Cuban oppositionist party.

He uttered a stirring denunciation of the regime of President Gerardo Machado, but appealed to the United States "not to wound Cuba's independence to free her from the tyrant."

"There are many procedures in the law of nations which affect only the culprit, without hurting the unwilling people who have suffered him," General Menocal declared. "It will constitute a terrible irony if Cuba should pay with its honor for the fall of the despicable man whom she has so solemnly repudiated."

Ten File Petitions As Candidates For Jury Commissioner

New Law Reducing Pay Does Not Seem To Effect Candidate Crop

Notwithstanding the new law greatly reducing the compensation for jury commissioners, there appears to be plenty of applicants for the place. To date ten candidates have filed their nomination papers at the commissioners office, six on the Republican ticket, and four on the Democratic. There is one from each party to be elected.

Candidates for other offices are slow in filing their papers. So far three have filed for sheriff, four for register and recorder; six for city controller; twelve for council and four for school director.

Some of the boroughs and a part of the township candidates have filed. Wampum is one of the boroughs which has filed a full ticket.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

CLIPPING HELPS YELLOW CONDITION OF ALFALFA

Lawrence county farmers report that in many cases the second cutting of alfalfa has turned yellow and seems to have stopped growing. This condition is probably due in many cases to leaf hoppers, which suck sap from the growing plants.

There is no remedy for this condition, but if the yellow top is clipped the next growth will generally come on satisfactorily. As long as the old top is left uncut the new growth will not start. If there is not enough of the yellow growth to gather, it may be clipped and left on the ground.

Clipping now seedlings of alfalfa does not seem to be desirable unless the above yellow condition develops, or unless weeds threaten to over-top the alfalfa. In this case clipping should be low enough to get most of the weeds but not low enough to cut off the shorter alfalfa shoots.

SELECT TURKEYS FOR NEXT YEAR'S BREEDING PEN NOW

Don't wait until Thanksgiving to select birds for next years breeding pen. Start now to examine your turkeys to make sure of getting good breeders.

Apparently there is a direct relationship between the size of turkeys at this season of the year and their later rate of growth and development. That is, the largest now will usually continue to hold their advantage. Also, birds with relatively broad backs usually have wide breasts and carry plenty of white meat.

Observations have shown that in general the same characteristics which denote egg production and productivity ability in chicks apply also to turkeys. For example persistent broodiness is an indication of low production.

Pigmentation in Bronze turkeys is another good guide. The shanks of good layers turn to a purplish pink or a grayish white color after a season of heavy production, while those of poor layers remain a dark russet of slaty color. Also poor layers have a neater appearance due to molting which gives their plumage more luster, while good layers have faded plumage, broken feathers, and an unkempt appearance.

In the selection of breeding stock it is advisable to use high producers. It pays to select and keep some of the old hens for breeders.

WATER GLADIOLI TO GET GOOD BLOOMS

Water is one of the major essentials for good growth of Gladioli. Roots which are well supplied with water produce plants whose flowers are less likely to be scorched during the hot days than those of plants suffering for want of water. Many Gladioli plants showing indications of drought damage have spindly and crooked stems which are caused by wilting of the stem during the day and its inability to completely recover during the night.

In addition to watering clean cultivation, good soil, and fertilization are important. Liquid cow manure should be applied to the gladioli beds at intervals of ten to fourteen days. Nitrate of soda, one level tablespoonful to two gallons of water, may be applied as soon as the buds begin to show color. A sprinkling can may be used in applying this fertilizer.

WELL GROWN COLTS MAKE GOOD HORSES

"Stunted colts make stunted horses." So farmers are urged to give their growing colts special care.

Not only are farmers raising more colts than usual this year but they are using better management in growing them out.

Suckling colts will do better if they receive a small feeding of oats while they are still with the mare. Yearling colts should be kept inside away from the flies during the day and turned out at night. Grain fed during the day will increase their growth and development more than enough to offset the cost of the feed.

Proper care of the growing colts feet is also an essential part of the horseman's duties. Trimming of the feet may mean a long, useful life, while neglected feet sometimes may ruin the animal. Before the foot is trimmed, the points to be corrected should be observed as the colt stands at rest. Then the foot should be lifted and the wall trimmed off level with the sole of the foot unless there is some angle to be corrected.

A few minutes spent in trimming the colt's feet will improve his appearance as well as his value.

FARM TOUR AUGUST 17

Arrangements have been completed for the county's second annual Lawrence-Beaver county farm tour on August 17. This will be a tour similar to the one which was made to Folk last year. The tour this year will travel through Beaver and Allegheny counties. Stops will be made at Hyllmede farm in Beaver, where Jersey cattle and Belgian horses will be the chief attraction. Other stops will be made at the Ray farm and F. B. Jones farm in Allegheny county. At this stop dairy cattle and other items will be observed.

Lawrence county folks will start from the Agricultural Extension office on Croton avenue, at 8 o'clock Eastern Standard Time. For these folks who wish to travel direct to the first stop at Hyllmede farm should arrange to be there at 9 o'clock Eastern Standard Time. This farm is located one mile north of the Beaver court house.

Everyone should take a picnic dinner with them.

POLITE BURGLAR IS TRAPPED BY HAT

(International News Service) DETROIT, Mich. — Burglars should never be polite. Mrs. Ethel Wright named Steve Ferris, 31, as the man who robbed her home of $150 worth of jewels and silverware, because "I knew he was so polite he would remove his hat in the house." He forgot to take his hat with him when he left.

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyrle King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Power Companies Plan For Fight

Big Power Companies Of South Will Fight Government Competition

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The big power companies of the south are preparing to battle against the threatened competition of the government in its development of the vast Tennessee valley power reservoir.

Word reached Washington that heads of the biggest companies operating in that section have been in the south for several weeks, closely following the preparations of the Tennessee valley authority to launch its big public ownership program.

With the Tennessee valley authority, aided by funds of the public works administration, ready to begin a drive to capture business from the private companies, a "power war" was in prospect.

The private companies, with an investment of $40,000,000 are reported to be ready to match the rates of the government and to battle in more than 25 cities and towns against proposals to buy power from Muscle Shoals.

Aluminum Company Adopts New Code

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Officials of Aluminum Company of America announced Thursday that the concern has signed and approved the code adopted by the Association of Manufacturers in the Aluminum industry.

Covering the industry from the mining of ore to the manufacture of finished products, the code will be ready for filing with the national industrial recovery administration early next week.

It was drafted at the organization meeting of the association held on August 2.

A majority of companies connected with the fabrication of basic aluminum commodities as well as companies dealing in secondary products are members of the association.

DISCOVERS REMEDY FOR POTATO BLIGHT

(International News Service) PORT COLLINS, Colo.—Millions of dollars will be saved Colorado potato growers through the discovery of a remedy for potato blight, an insect which causes "purple top."

The insect cost potato growers of the state $2,500,000 last year, according to estimates of agricultural experts.

Dr. George M. List, state entomologist, who announced the discovery of the remedy, has been experimenting since 1916 in an effort to find a means of controlling the pest.

It is unusual and somewhat unprecedented for life insurance companies to make semi-annual statements, but The Western and Southern Life Insurance Company, desirous of assuring its patrons as well as the insuring public that the well-known strength and stability of this company is unimpaired, that the industrial recovery now well in progress is having its beneficial effect on the institution of life insurance as well as on commercial and mercantile enterprises, submits the above statement, which includes a valuation of our policy obligations by the Ohio Insurance Department as evidence of this effect and of sound and economic management.

Every obligation has been met promptly, even through the trying banking holiday period, without disturbance to the Company's long established practice of NEVER BORROWING ANY MONEY. It has NO UNPAID DEBTS—NO OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE ON DEMAND except such as are provided for in its own life insurance policies.

There is no safer institution for the investment of your savings than life insurance and no safer company than

N. R. A. HEAD URGES SPENDING TO SPEED PROGRAM

Success Of Plan Hinges On Buying Johnson Warns

Says There Must Be Increased Business To Support Increased Wages

DENIES BOYCOTT MAY BE USED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A warning from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson that the recovery program will fail unless the public spends and business cooperates today gave impetus to the nationwide publicity drive to back firms flying the Blue Eagle.

Although Johnson's aides professed satisfaction with the manner in which proposed recovery flowing in, the chief of the recovery administration served notice the entire program must be speeded to the limit.

New Plan Projected.
A new and powerful method of bringing employers into the fold by authorizing manufacturers to brand articles with the blue eagle insignia was under consideration.

Denying that the recovery administration is planning a boycott and urging the public to buy now and provide employers with the money to pay higher wages, Johnson told a Baltimore audience last night that "the only gamble is that the whole plan will fail."

"The only chance of this plan failing," he said, "is the chance that we cannot get together and all do our part."

He told his hearers frankly that the consumer must pay the bill. Employers, he said, must suffer hardships in some instances because prices cannot rise as fast as costs, but in the end the public must pay more for what it gets.

"The public must buy now," said Johnson. "It must buy to the full of its reasonable and prudent needs. To support increased wages there must be increased business."

Johnson acclaimed the success of the president's labor board in settling the eight week old Reading Pa. hosiery workers strike in three hours.

With this victory in its first effort to bring peace in industry while the recovery administration is functioning, the labor board set a precedent it expects to be followed in other strike areas.

Labor Agreement
The Labor Board, headed by acting chairman Leo Wolman, obtained an agreement under which 13,000 workers will go back to the mills on Monday. They will select their own committee to negotiate with employers. The employers agreed not to discriminate against union members in the meantime.

Thus the strike which grew out of the effort to unionize the Reading workers for the first time was temporarily ended, and is expected to remain settled until the hosiery code is acted upon. Both to the Reading groups agreed to accept decisions of the labor board.

A similar victory was expected by the board in its effort to end a shirt maker's strike in the Pottsville, Pa. area. Other negotiations to end strike troubles were expected soon.

As a part of the drive of the recovery administration, thirty army airplanes were to start from New York today for a dozen cities with loads of blue eagles.

Banners Distributed
Following an address by Postmaster-General Farley and a demonstration, during which banners more than 135 feet long will be floated to the breezes high in the air, the planes will go to Boston, Albany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Columbia, Richmond, Harrisburg and Washington.

A pledge of jobs for 50,000 to 70,000 was made by the restaurant industry after approval of a re-employment agreement by the administration. Maximum work weeks of 54 hours for male workers and 48 for female were authorized by Johnson because of the peculiar needs of the restaurant business.

Modification of the label manufacturer's agreement, to permit a 44 hour week during seasonal peaks, was approved.

Reemployment agreements were in prospect from the street railways of the Nation, taxicab and motor truck operators, and progress on codes was being made in the theatrical, hosiery, underwear and coal hearings.

Banker, Known Here, Stricken
John H. Waters Taken Suddenly Ill, While Attending Hearing At Capital

John H. Waters, president of the United States National Bank of Johnstown, Pa., was taken suddenly ill, while speaking before the controller of currency in Washington, Thursday, and was removed to the emergency hospital in Washington, D. C. for treatment.

Waters was replying to the protest of Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, against the United States National Bank's plan for reorganization, when taken ill, his condition is reported serious.

Mr. Waters is well known in this city. In addition to his bank affiliations, he is president of the National Radiator Corporation, which operates a big plant in this city.

The bank of which Mr. Waters is president, has been operating under Federal restrictions since the bank holiday last March, will reopen in the near future under a plan of reorganization which has been prepared by the controller of currency. This made possible by the oversubscription of $800,000 of the capital stock.

Troop Invited To County Show

Troop F On Program At Allegheny County Fair To Be Held In Pittsburgh

TO STAGE RODEO ON SEPTEMBER 2

Troop F's riding ability, which has gained them recognition throughout Western Pennsylvania, has resulted in their being invited to stage a rodeo in connection with the big Allegheny County Fair, to be held at Pittsburgh August 31 to September 4.

The Troop has been placed on the program for Saturday, September 2, today, and inasmuch as the troop will return home from the summer encampment at Mt. Gretna on that date, they will be able to accept the invitation.

The fair is a big free exhibition, staged under the auspices of Allegheny county, and will be one of the biggest events of its kind outside the state fair at Harrisburg.

It is possible, Captain Bintrim stated, that the troop may be invited to remain over the week end, and stage another rodeo on Labor Day, September 4.

The troop is all set to depart for camp at Mt. Gretna next Friday, and this evening, Lieut. George Mitchell and the advance detail will leave to make preparations for the arrival of the main body of the troop the following Friday.

The final drill of the troop will be held on Wednesday evening of next week, instead of Thursday evening as previously announced, Captain Bintrim stated. This will give the men more opportunity to have the evening to themselves before they leave.

STATE IGNORES WEED COMPLAINTS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Hundreds of complaints involving careless property owners who allow noxious weeds to seed and spread to other properties, are received each year during mid-summer by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. It is necessary in each case to explain that local authorities, and not the state, are charged with the enforcement of the Pennsylvania Weed Law.

Mayoralty Race In Pittsburgh Is Factional Fight

Said To Be Common Desire To Abolish Control Of State Senator Coyne

FACTIONS MAY FUSE BEFORE THE PRIMARY

By WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Pittsburgh's mayoralty contest, acknowledging through four candidates a common desire to abolish the control of State Senator James J. Coyne, approaches primary time with each day bringing some new dissension to confuse the voting public.

Three candidates seek nomination in the Republican primary, while two men have announced themselves in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Of the three Republicans, Mayor John S. Herron alone appears to be enjoying the security of definite and staunch backing. He is conceded the support of what remains of the regular party machine, weakened but still functioning after the revelations of the Kline regime, plus the powerful backing of the Coyne forces throughout Allegheny county.

Malone Out
Register of Willis Joseph N. Mackrell, Councilman P. J. McArdle, and James F. Malone, meanwhile, hoping to draw all possible support from Mayor Herron to their own sides, went through the motions of "fusing" to fight the common enemy, "Coyneism." Malone withdrew this week and reduced Herron's Republican opponents to two.

Ostensible throwing self-interests to the winds to answer what resembled a call to public-spirited "action," the three anti-Coyne Republicans met in one of their offices recently to decide who would be the best man to oppose Mayor Herron and the Coyne machine.

It was a case of picking the man who would draw the greatest support and best fill the office upon election.

Out of their group was to come the "La Guardia" of the Allegheny County Republican "Fusionists." By common consent, two of the candidates would drop out of the race to center their combined efforts against Herron, "Fusion," although the word was now applied to be tried here as well as in New York.

But for some reason, the conference brought no immediate results. At any rate, it was followed with each of the candidates preparing his own campaign headquarters in widely separated sections of the city.

A few days later, Malone dropped out of the race, and the choice of a "fusionist" lay between Mackrell and McArdle.

League Split
An apparent split in the ranks of the citizens league, backers of councilman McArdle, gives an early hint of growing support for Mackrell. The fact that two of the league's active workers, E. E. McConnell and John M. Huston, swung from McArdle to Mackrell gives new hope in one quarter but adds to the confusion within the Republican ranks.

CLEVER HOSTESS HAS THINGS AROUND TO DO IF GUESTS FEEL LIKE IT

It's the clever hostess who knows when to leave her guests alone and when to provide things to do. And it's the very clever one who provides plenty of occupation for guests if they feel like doing it, but doesn't insist on action. The peaceful scene in the center suggests lounging if you feel like it; but canoes, lawn bowls, rope quoits, bull board—the one with numbers—spring back, played with balls, are there for guests to amuse themselves. Left at top, table tennis, diabolos, jacks, bang-ball, bat-a-ball with flat racket, play ball and boxing gloves; right, pyramid peg, pardened the Democrats. Still feeling the warmth of last November's presidential victory, and buoyed up by the added power and prestige it won for local party leaders, Democratic factions have placed two men in the field.

First of these to announce his candidacy was Attorney John M. Henry independent Democrat, who is out to expose what he asserts is a definite alliance between the Coyne machine and his own party.

William N. McNair, Henry's opponent for the Democratic nomination, has the support of David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, whose campaign for county commissioner in 1931 was managed by McNair.

In that election Coyne did his best for Lawrence against the independent candidate, but to no avail. It is this past relationship with Coyne which causes Henry to regard Lawrence's backing of McNair as nothing more or less than Coyne backing, and that an insidious influence.

Denounces Coyne.
McNair, however, was not slow in denouncing Coyne with the others. His battle cry attacking Coyne and W. L. Mellon accompanied the announcement of his candidacy. To which Henry replied:

"I welcome the candidacy of Mr. McNair because it affords an opportunity for Democrats to determine in their primary whether they approve of the secret alliance long existing between David L. Lawrence and the Coyne machine."

There has been no intimation of any kind of "fusion" to oppose a common rival to date between the Democratic candidates. The issue has remained clearly drawn between the two men on the charge of Coyne-Mellon affiliation.

Thus, both parties have been charged with pandering to the Coyne reign. And almost in the breath, representatives of each party and their various factions have denied that charge.

"Coyneism" in Pittsburgh's mayoralty race is the recognized issue within both parties. Coyne, rather than Herron, will be the target of the mayor's opponents.

Government And Power Companies Commence Battle

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 11.—With a "power war" between the U. S. Government and private companies anticipated in the Tennessee valley, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee valley authority, today charged the private companies with circulating "mis-leading propaganda" intended to defeat the success of the Muscle Shoals project.

Delivering an address while here on a brief vacation, Dr. Morgan asserted that the private companies are broadcasting "conflicting stories."

"They are sending out propaganda," Dr. Morgan said, "which indicates that there is so much water power now in the Tennessee valley that no more is needed."

"At the same time, however, various applications are being received at Washington asking the federal power commission for permission to build more plants in direct contradiction of the first story."

Widows Stage Verbal Battle

Two Alleged Wives Of Late U. S. Army Flier Meet In Combat In Kansas City

EACH WILL CLAIM BODY OF AIRMAN

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11.—Two pretty young women met over the casket of Captain Edward F. M. Deeds in Union Station here Thursday and in a dramatic verbal duel contested each other's claim as the widow of the aviator.

A third woman, the flyer's elderly mother, meanwhile knelt weeping beside the bier of her son.

Killed In China.

The body of the flyer, killed in a plane crash in China, was accompanied to Kansas City by Mrs. Marie Hennessey Shirley Deeds, 23, a former Hollywood movie actress who says she is the flyer's second wife. She claims that the aviator had obtained a divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Betty Deeds, 34, both in Mexico and in China and had married her in China.

Seeking Fortune.

Wife number one, according to wife number two is "just seeking a fortune she thinks Eddie has left me."

Wife number two, Mrs. Marie Deeds, stepped off the train this morning accompanied by her mother to confront wife number one Mrs. Betty Deeds, and the mother of the dead aviator, Mrs. Millie Potvin, whose home is here.

With eyes flashing, and while an amazed crowd looked on, wife number one challenged wife number two to "show your marriage license."

Mrs. Marie Deeds flaunted an application for a pilot's license which she said was her husband's and which under Chinese regulations must bear the name of the applicant's wife.

No Marriage License.

"See that name?" asked wife number two, "it isn't yours, is it?"

"That isn't your marriage license" insisted wife number one.

The piece of paper was returned by wife number two to her purse which she closed with a snap.

"I'll have plenty more evidence of my marriage to Eddie to be exhibited at the proper time," she countered.

Gold Deposits Left By Flood Within Denver

Estimate $8,000,000 In Free Gold Washed Into Denver By Flood Waters

(International News Service)
DENVER, Aug. 11.—The raging waters of Cherry creek that swept through Denver last week as a turbulent, roaring engine of destruction carried with them a potential fortune in gleaming gold for Denver's unemployed.

Some 40,000,000 tons of mud from the Cherry Valley was carried into Denver in the flood.

The United States Mint here revealed that an assay of the mud that was piled thick on the streets revealed that it held an average of 20 cents per ton in free gold.

Officials at the mine estimated that the flood had carried $8,000,000 in gold into Denver.

Along the banks of Cherry creek squatted scores of unemployed, monotonously twirling water and mud from a gold pan to recover that gold—the flood's bequest.

Touhy and his gunmen are being held in Milwaukee on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

SMUGGLER CAUGHT BY CHEST EXPANSION

(International News Service)

It cost Messenger $1,000 in fines and the loss of his handbags.

Widow Wants to Face McMahon

Mrs. Jessie B. Costello, "smiling widow" fighting for her life in murder trial at Salem, Mass., has asked Edward McMahon, policeman who confessed to illicit relations which she denies, to be recalled to the stand to repeat his story. F. S. Brenneman Out For Recorder

Made Impressive Showing Four Years Ago—Again Seeks Republican Nomination

FRANK S. BRENNEMAN

In an announcement made today, Frank S. Brenneman of 418 Garfield avenue, New Castle, makes known his intention to again seek the Republican nomination for register and recorder at the primary election to be held September 19, 1933. Mr. Brenneman was a candidate four years ago and made an exceedingly creditable run. His statement follows:

In 1929 I was a candidate for the Republican nomination for register and recorder, and the showing at that time made me convinced my friends, as well as myself, that I am again justified in entering the contest. In the primary election four years ago I received very substantial support in every precinct in Lawrence county and finished second to the winner.

By precedent in the county for very many years the office of register and recorder has been treated as a two-term office. The voters apparently have always considered that this office was sufficiently attractive and the salary such that it should not be held by one person for more than eight years. It is an office that requires careful attention to detail, and there is nothing about the duties of the office that cannot be handled economically in the interests of the taxpayers by anyone having a good education and average intelligence, so that the claim that any one person in the county is indispensable to this office cannot be successfully defended.

I am nominated and elected to this important office I make this pledge to the taxpayers of Lawrence county: I will devote my entire time personally to the duties of the office and will conduct the office with the least number of competent clerks and assistants that is absolutely necessary for the proper conduct of the business of the office, and will not carry a single member of my family or a single political appointee that is not necessary in the proper conduct of the office. I will greatly appreciate the support of the voters of Lawrence county.

Eight Are Held In Chinese City As Troops Battle

Seven American Missionaries And One German Nun Bottled Up By Soldiers

(International News Service)
PEIPING, Aug. 11.—Seven American missionaries and one German nun are held virtual prisoners in the city of Yuanchow. It was revealed today.

At the same time, an official Chinese communique was issued denying that the city of Dolon-Nor in Charhar Province has fallen into Japanese hands.

Planes Drop Bombs
The communique stated five Japanese planes had bombed Pinchin Pao in the Dolon-Nor area, killing 20 civilians.

The plight of the missionaries was disclosed in a letter smuggled from Yuanchow, on the border of Hunan and Kweichow Provinces. It said the missionaries had been bottled up in the city since June 27, when the government troops began a siege against the town's bandit defenders. The American legation is investigating.

The Americans, all of them Roman Catholic faith, are Sisters Genevieve Ryan, Saint-Anne Callahan, Magdalen Ivan and Rosario Foss, and Fathers Edward McCarthy, Francis Flaherty and Mark Mullen.

Ice-Cold Salt Water Operation Saves Man's Life

Harrisburg Doctors Perform Rare Operation And Save Life Of Man

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—A quart of ice-cold salt water drained into the body of Harry Morrison, of Penbrook, by a rarely-performed operation Thursday was credited with having saved Morrison's life.

Overcome by sunstroke, Morrison was taken to Polyclinic hospital where his temperature was recorded at 107 2-5 degrees—two-fifths of a degree beyond the point which usually brings death.

Acting swiftly, doctors decided upon a rarely-performed operation. They suspended a quart bottle of ice-cold salt water over the patient's head. A rubber hose, with a hypodermic needle at one end, was attached to the water bottle.

The needle was inserted in a vein in Morrison's elbow and the ice water gradually drained into his body. Morrison's temperature dropped to 103 degrees and ice-packs kept it there.

ILLINOIS TO TRY PAROLE CONTROL

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Scientific administration of the parole system of Illinois, which will enable the State Board of Pardons and Paroles to base its action on statistical "expectancy" tables in much the same way that life insurance companies base rates on actuarial statistics, is to be put into practice immediately. The plan, developed by Prof. E. W. Burgess, sociologist at the University of Chicago, will provide a means of determining with a high degree of accuracy, what is the most effective sentence from both the standpoint of society and the individual prisoner.

Johnson Plans For Policing Of Big Industries

General Hugh S. Johnson Pledges Battle To Finish
On Profiteering

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Pledging a battle against profiteering, Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, today disclosed tentative plans to delegate the policing of industry to the Justice Department and the federal trade commission.

The recovery administration itself, Johnson said, plans to confine its efforts at enforcing the recovery act to the compulsion of public opinion.

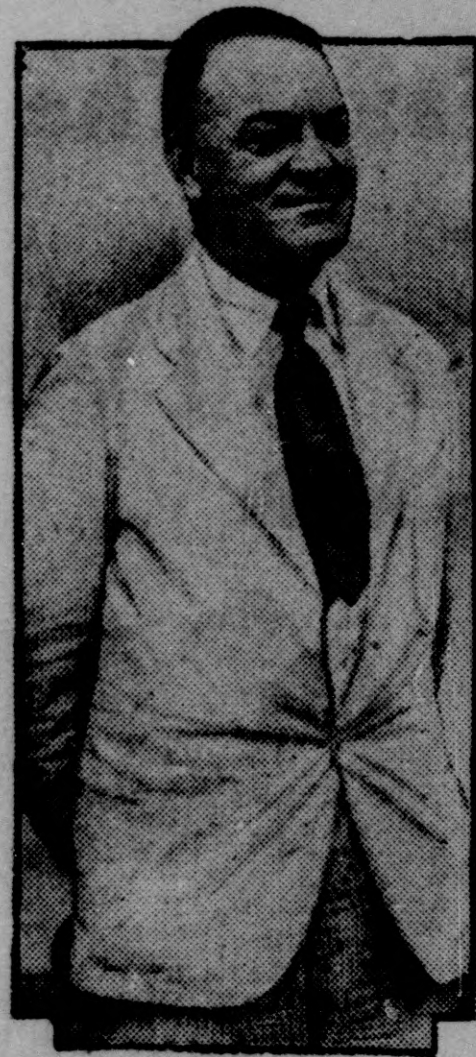

Explaining his plan, Johnson said: "We are receiving complaints, and we shall try to decentralize enforcement after codes are approved. This is to be sort of a guild government. Since agreements of companies are voluntary, it is my thought to lay complaints before the trade association.

Becomes Monopoly
"But, on the other hand, there is the question of whether the association becomes a monopoly in restraint of trade. We will have one to three people sitting in trade associations, without vote, but with veto power."

"If complaints are not settled it is my idea—this is tentative—that we will turn policing over to the federal trade commission. As far as our outfit is concerned we are going to assume good faith of course. The Department of Justice has power and responsibility under the law."

Asked if he planned to investigate complaints by profiteering in Cleveland and other cities, Johnson replied: "We won't have to investigate—all kinds of things indicate chiseling."

NRA Head in Cotton

Hugh Johnson, chief of NRA, doesn't wear fancy clothes when he goes out to lay down law to industrial leaders, as this new photo, taken as he was leaving Washington for a conference, indicates. His "fighting clothes" are cotton.

Good Yield Of Corn Expected

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—The federal-state crop reporting service today forecast a good yield of corn, estimating the total Pennsylvania crop at 48,818,000 bushels, about 3,000,000 more than the five-year average.

Although in many sections the potato crop has been above normal, the fall yield, when the majority of them is dug, was reported as "critical". In some sections hot, dry weather has adversely affected the growing vines. The yield was estimated at 18,333,000 or about 4,000,000 bushels less than the average. An apple harvest of 7,854,000 bushels was forecast.

ONE DRY VOTER REALLY WAS WET

(International News Service)
CARTER LAKE, Ia., Aug. 11.—One of the two persons who voted against prohibition repeal here during the recent state referendum has at last been identified—and he was a wet at heart.

The vote here was 80 for repeal against two opposing repeal and there was considerable speculation over who the two "dry" voters were. One of dry votes, it develops, was that of George T. Lindsey, who said he voted dry so the election would not be invalidated.

Appointed as a dry representative on the election board—although he personally favored repeal—Lindsey felt he must cast his ballot for prohibition to make the election legal. No genuine dry could be found to serve on the election board, he said.

As an afterthought, he remembered he had $1,500 in $100 bills in the vest pocket. He raced to the police. Police raced to the tailors and then to the dye house where the suit had been sent, seeking the men who handled it.

Mrs. Williams Asks Damages For Grading Of Ray Street

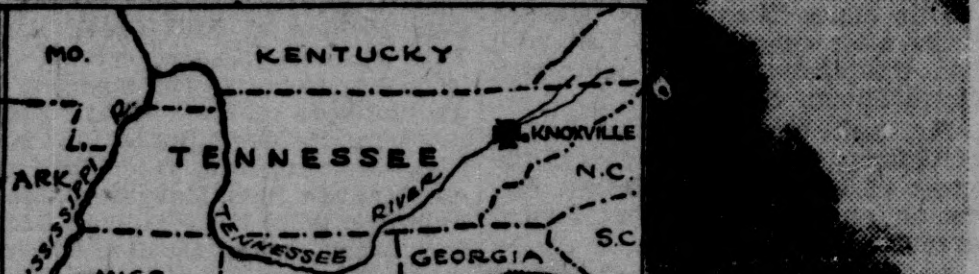

Mrs. Anna Williams, Croton avenue and Ray street, through her attorney, Norman A. Martin asks for damages as the result of grading of Ray street. Mrs. Williams offered to settle for $400. Director of Improvements Tresser expressed the belief that damages had been paid to a former owner of the property. Mrs. Williams claims the grade left the property in such a way it will be necessary to have a driveway built to put coal in the cellar. Council will look into the pavement damages records.

MOLEY MOBILIZES FOR CRIME WAR

First step in the federal war on crime, taking form in the department of justice, under the direction of Assistant Secretary of State Raymond I. Moley, is a study of existing laws which permit criminals to escape through loopholes. President Roosevelt has temporarily relieved Moley of most of his duties in the state department that he may devote himself entirely to directing the nation-wide federal drive to wipe out kidnapping and racketeering. Moley is a recognized criminologist. Other members of the crime council include J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation; Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, and Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to the attorney general.

Thirty Army Planes Will Carry NRA Posters To Cities Of Nation

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Thirty army planes, including a fleet of large Martin bombers, were on the runways of Floyd Bennett field today awaiting the signal from Postmaster general James A. Farley which will send them carrying nine tons of NRA blue eagle posters to 12 cities in the East and the South.

Officials said, however, that threatening weather may delay the start of the aerial propaganda drive. Accompanying the planes in their parade over New York will be an autogyro and a blimp each with a 120 foot streamer behind it with the message "NRA, We do our part."

The cities to which the planes will fly are Boston, Albany, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Columbia, S. C., Richmond, Harrisburg, and Washington.

State Tax Burden Too Heavy - Waters

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Aug. 11.—Urging a closer relationship between the counties and the state, Charles A. Waters, state treasurer, Thursday delved again into the subject of a revised governmental structure in Pennsylvania, including county consolidation.

Addressing the annual convention of county commissioners here, Waters told the delegates that their primary problems deal with the townships, consolidation of which would result in a more efficient fiscal management and tax reduction. "None of us for a moment disputes the fact that the tax burden of the people is too great and ways must be found to reduce it," he said. In 1932, he declared, one dollar out of every three was paid for the operation of the government.

Reform Is Coming
"A reform in county and township government is coming and we might as well prepare ourselves for it. We must, above all, preserve the principle of local self-government. This can only be well done by making government more efficient. The functions of local and state government cannot be wisely distributed on rigid lines of principle or tradition."

Waters asserted that existence of a closer tie between the counties and the state would aid in establishing uniform accounting and budgeting systems under state supervision. Courts of justice and equity would be distributed where they would meet the demands of the public with a minimum expense and representatives to the state and national legislatures would be elected on an equitable basis.

He pointed out, however, that these reforms in Pennsylvania could not be effected without amendments to the constitution, or its revision, adding that "they are not imminent, but again I commend them to your careful consideration."

"Early Leaders Of Israel --- Hannah"
"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Proverbs 31:30—"A woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
Whether Hannah shared Elkanah's sin by becoming the second wife in his unhappy family we are not told. This may have been part of the sorrow with which her soul was drunk.

So it was that Hannah went up with her husband to the house of the Lord in Shiloh in great bitterness of soul because she was childless and the other wife in the family had children: "And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the Lord and wept sore. And she vowed a vow, and said, O Lord of hosts if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then will I give him unto the Lord all the days of his life."

Here is a fervent prayer for motherhood as God's crowning glory for womanhood. Here, too, is a fine example of prenatal influence of a mother in shaping the character of her unborn child. And if we want to know how God prepared Samuel to become next to Moses in greatness among all Old Testament characters let us give the credit under God, to Samuel's godly mother, as in the case of Joshebed, mother of Moses.

Both mingled a mother's prayers with their mother's milk in the making of manhood God used so wonderfully in their sons. Both are the inspiration and encouragement of innumerable hosts of obscure mothers who serve God and country valiantly through their more illustrious sons and daughters.

"What's In A Name?"

The naming of a baby always is an interesting event in family life.

To this godly mother it was particularly significant. Her son of prayer must have a name which would forever remind him that he was a child of prayer and consecrated to Jehovah who had given him in answer to prayer. So she named the child "asked of God," for this is the meaning of "Samuel."

Thus she insured the perpetual remembrance of her answered prayer and her solemn vow.

A Mother's Sacrifice
Hannah's unselfish dedication to the ministry of motherhood was evidenced when her child was weaned and she brought him up to Shiloh and turned him over to the aged Eli to be trained from infancy for God's service.

"And when she had weaned him she took him up with her . . . and brought him unto the house of the Lord in Shiloh: and the child was young . . . and she said . . . for this child I prayed; and the Lord hath given me my petition which I asked of him; therefore also I have lent him to the Lord; as long as he liveth he shall be lent to the Lord. And he worshipped the Lord there."

Thus godly mothers through the ages have shaped their children's destinies for time and eternity in the laboratory of their own devotion and ideals.

Home-Made Clothes
Hannah saw her son only once a year when they came up to the house of the Lord for the yearly sacrifice.

"Samuel ministered before the Lord, being a child, girded with a linen ephod. Moreover his mother made him a little coat and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice."

So through the year as her arms ached to clasp her child to her breast she pictured him "increasing in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," so that the little coat into which she wrought so many prayers and tears doubtlessly fit the child growing in the Lord.

Wingerd Wins Tennis Crown At Chautauqua

Lowell Wingerd, New Castle Young Man, Again Winner At Lake Tourney

ALSO WINS IN DOUBLES EVENT

Lowell Wingerd, son of Rev. C. B. Wingerd, of 328 Park avenue, this city, is again the tennis singles champion of Chautauqua Lake. Wingerd recently disposed of Manness 6-0, 6-3, 6-3 to regain the title that he lost last year to the hard driving game of Paul Wright. Wingerd was the favorite to win this year.

Wingerd's game this year was at the highest peak. He handled Manness the challenger in fine style, whipping many service aces over the net for points. This makes the fourth time that young Wingerd has taken the Chautauqua Lake title. The Wingerd family spends the summer at the popular New York State lake resort.

Wingerd In Form
In fighting his way to the finals against Manness, Wingerd had to dispose of Jack Moore, one of the best tennis players at Chautauqua Lake, a man who for fourteen years won the tennis singles title.

Wingerd won the New Castle tennis singles championship last year and the year before. Last year Wingerd defeated Dan Carroll to take the title after a hard fought tourney. It is hoped that he will be able to enter the tourney here this year.

Also Wins Doubles
After winning the singles title Wingerd teamed up with Douglas and the doubles team won the championship by upsetting such well known lake stars as Hill and Davis. The scores were 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

In the doubles play that was so closely contested. It looked for a time as if the Hill-Davis combination would win the crown, but Wingerd and Douglas came through with a lot of brilliant play that won for them the coveted honors.

There were many young stars entered in both the singles and doubles at Chautauqua this year. The winners will receive suitable awards for their efforts, in addition to the honor of holding the Chautauqua Lake championship.

The Merchants will use "Howdy" Gresham in the box. Oak A. C. will journey to the Radiator field to meet Greeny and his Radiator gang. St. Andrews will go to Taggart field for a battle with the Young Yankees. The Spencer and St. Nicholas teams will play at Gaston park field.

Senators And Giants Ahead

Giants Increase Lead By Downing Phils; Senators Trim Boston Red Sox

SEVERAL GAMES ARE WASHED OUT

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—One of the primary reasons the New York Giants are setting the pace in the National League race this year is the amazing improvement of Roy (Tarzan) Parmelee, the man who walks with a waddle and pitches like a Waddell.

In his few appearances on the mound last season, the erstwhile wild man was of no more use than a blotter at the Johnston flood, failing to win a single contest. This year he has won ten games against five defeats, has twice narrowly missed turning in a no-hit classic and is one of the outstanding luminaries of New York's all-star mound staff.

Giants Gain
The "man who walks like a yak" particularly does on the hard-tired Phillies. He held them to one hit on April 26 and hurled hitless ball against them for seven innings yesterday. The Quakers got two safe hits before the last towel was lifted but Parmelee had no difficulty in hanging up a 4 to 0 shutout.

The victory put the Giants 3 1/2 games in front of the idle Pirates.

Washington Wins
This was the only game played in the National League. In the American League, the Yankees were rained out and the Washington Senators increased their lead over the New Yorkers to 3 1/2 games by noosing out the Red Sox, 5 to 3, with a three-run rally in the eighth inning.

A single broke up the party. Dusty Rhodes was the losing pitcher. Crowder and Russell pitched for the Nats, Crowder being credited with his 17th victory.

The White Sox beat Detroit, 6 to 3, behind Sam Jones' steady pitching. Swanson and Dykes led the attack with three hits apiece.

Other clubs were idle.

Cockroach Racers Victims Of Poison

(International News Service)
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 11.—Shades of something or other! The cockroach racers at Mission Beach, a resort here was non-existent today.

Some vile person, police say, broke into the stables and scattered roach powder. When attendants opened the stables for the daily workout, they found all of the racers—including Drapinepe, sensational Parisian filly—sense dead.

While club officials wired frantic orders for a cake-box of new gallopers, police flung out a cordon, embracing the boardwalk and kitchens of beach sandwich places.

League Rivals To Meet Again Today

West Side Tigers and Bessemer will play off a postponed Lawrence County League game at 6:30 p. m. d. s. t. on the Lee Avenue field today. Tigers and Bessemer are widely separated as to their standing in the circuit but are natural rivals.

James Mutrie Who Founded Giants Is Still Rabid "Fan"

Organizer And Namer Of New York Giants Is Now 83 And Lives On Staten Island

Gets Small Pension From Baseball Club; Has Been Married For 53 Years

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—"Have you ever heard of James Mutrie? He started the New York Giants in 1883, just 50 years ago. He owned the club and he was the one that named them the Giants," a caller asked the International News Service Sports Editor yesterday.

"Yes, I've heard of Mutrie and I'll check up on it," said the editor, "but that man must be dead." James Mutrie is not dead. He still lives in New Brighton, Staten Island, penniless except for a small pension from the ball club, and almost blind from squinting at the sky from the sun field. But the reporter who went over there today to write a sob story encountered two of the happiest people he had ever met.

Married 53 Years
Mrs. Mutrie was with him and they were observing the 53rd anniversary of their marriage. Not with a special dinner or friends calling on them, but just reminding one another of the old days.

"Fifty-three years," said Mutrie. "It's nothing." He was sitting in the kitchen, one of the two rooms they occupy in a clapboard tenement. His 83 years have left him slightly shrunken and bent but the bloom was on his cheek and his white hair and mustache bristled.

Enormous Salaries
"What crowds they have at the games these days," he mused. "And the salaries they pay the players? Why, when I had the Giants, some of the best players in the country only got $10 a week."

Mutrie talked baseball of the eighties with familiarity. She got out yellowed clippings and faded photographs with a tall, black-mustached Mutrie in an iron hat and a five-button coat, standing in the midst of his uniformed men. Men long since forgotten were hailed then as some of the greatest players of the game—"Dasher" Troy, Al Latham and Tom Esterbrook.

The Mutries were married the same year he revived baseball in New York. He came down from Massachusetts, found a backer in John B. Day, a coffee merchant who agreed to buy uniforms, bats and balls. Then Mutrie went looking for a field. August Belmont agreed to let them use the Polo field at the north end of Central Park. That is how the present Polo Grounds, miles further north, got its name.

Called Giants
That was in 1880. The team was the Metropolitan. After three years he and Day sold the "Mets" for $40,000 and put the money into a new club which Mutrie later called the Giants. He was the manager. The club won the pennant in 1883. But in 1890 the players walked out to form a league of their own and Mutrie retired from the game broke.

He went over to Staten Island and Mrs. Mutrie went with him. Her husband, who had acquired a fortune and was one of the big men of New York at 30, started to sell newspapers at 40 as helper to the dealer on the ferry landing. Those were the hard years and there were 30 of them.

Loves Baseball
In 1929 the owners of the Giants, who had either forgotten or had never heard of Mutrie's existence, discovered him. They gave him a pension.

"The Giants are his one love," Mrs. Mutrie said today. "He gets the scores every night over the radio and when they win he goes to bed happy. If they lose, he's downcast. But now that they are leading the league he is happy all the time."

Tennis Report Needs Probing

Officials Of American Tennis Are Reported To Have Stars On Payroll

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Not to blow the whistle on some good reliable tennis burn nor to issue the customary blast, otherwise known as form 1-a or a ringing denunciation of the tennis association but—

It occurs to me to wonder today what steps the government of American tennis might wish to take in connection with a published report that one of its officials maintained two men stars on the payroll of his business office for many months previous to an important series of matches. The tennis association has been under investigation into whatever, if anything, its gentleman champion, Mr. Vines, may happen to be thinking. It also was temporarily at a loss as to what it might do about its lady champion, Miss Jacobs, whose name was used without her intention or authority in an advertisement.

But what I'd like to know is what it means to do about itself. The published report named no names. But its purport was clear. It said that two stars had been on the payroll of a certain firm, of which a then-prominent tennis official was the head; that expensive automobiles were placed at their disposal; that they did no work, their only obligation being to continue all attention and energy to the matter of fitting themselves for tennis.

Colonials Trip Merchants 10 To 1
With Bartlett pitching a five-hit game the Colonial A. C. hammered Shafit for nine hits and won a 10 to 1 victory last night at Colonial Field over the last East New Castle Merchants. Rosser was the only extra-base hitter with a double.

The Colonials scored two in the first, three in the second and topped off a rally with four in the sixth. Jesse McCann and Reider did the best hitting. Bartlett fanned eight men, and Shafit throwing for the Merchants whiffed seven men.

FRASSOS WIN GAME
Frassos mushball team handed the Reds A. C. a 16 to 4 upset, with James Gonnig pitching a fine game and hitting six homers to a triple.

RAMBLERS WANT GAMES
South Side Ramblers baseball team would like to book games with all fast teams in New Castle, such as Ryantown, Harbor A. C., Coal-towners, Boro A. C., Elders and all others. The Ramblers have won 10 games in a row and hope to make it 12 by taking the measure of Frisontale Saturday and the Key-stones Tuesday. For games call 1740-M and ask for Ed.

CARNEGIE MIDGETS WIN
Carnegie Midgets mushball team hung up their 17th victory of the season last evening by taking the highly touted Smith A. C. into camp by a score of 17 to 8, at Carnegie field. Forconi, C. Perrone, Covelli and Augustine led the Carnegie team at bat, while Colella and P. Napodena were the best for the losers, with home runs apiece.

CARNEGIE A. C. WINS
Carnegie A. C. mushball team handed the highly touted Canyon A. C. a 11 to 10 upset last night at Carnegie Field. The Carnegie boys came through with the winning run in the ninth inning when Pezzone singled with second on second. Pezzone was on the mound for the Carnegies and yielded but seven hits. A Ritchie the Canyon hurler was found for 10 hits. Pezzone and Bongivengo led the Carnegie team at bat, with Ritchie and Ritchie the best for the losers. Bongivengo had the only homer of the game.

THIRD U. P. WINS
Third U. P. church mushball team handed the Y. M. C. class of the Epworth M. E. church a 14 to 6 setback last at the Rose Avenue field. The stars of the game were Bentley, Jones, E. McCown, Rapson, A. McNickle, R. McNickle and Henderson.

Brouillard Will Meet Rosenbloom
New Middleweight Champion Would Fight Maxie Rosenbloom For Lightweight Title

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Having won the middleweight title from Ben Jely less than 48 hours ago, Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., slugger, expected to sign to meet Maxie Rosenbloom for the light heavyweight title in New York under the promotion of Tim Mara.

That was the announcement made by the champion's manager, Maurice Lemoine, who revealed that Brouillard is determined to win a third title. The Worcester youngster formerly held the welterweight crown.

The scientist who says there is no such thing as a falling dew should watch that note of ours next Tuesday.

Independent Teams To Play For Title

Cy Perkins Is Given Bench By League Prexy

President William Harridge Of American League Suspends Perkins For Five Days

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Cy Perkins, bullpen catcher of the New York Yankees, today began serving a five day suspension. William Harridge, American League president, handed out the suspension because of the catcher's violent squawks to umpire McGowan over a decision in the game with Washington at New York Tuesday.

Between Innings

LAMANCUSA TEAM WINS
Lamancusa mushball team handed the Pearson Indies a setback, 18 to 15, in a game played last night at Dean Park field. DiMuccio, Zona and La Rocca played the best ball for the Lamancusa team.

CANYONS PROTEST
The Canyon A. C., through Mr. Conli has protested the recent statement made by the Lamancusa team, that they defeated the Canyons, 10 to 1, and allowed them only one hit. The Canyons claim that the score was the other way around and that their pitcher, Isaac Wata, and D. DeMarco also played fine ball. The Frassos will play the Brown A. C. next at Dave's field.

Into Two Leagues
The teams were divided into two leagues as follows:
Amer. League Nat'l League
Boro A. C. Mahoning Indies
W. S. All-Stars James A. C.
Colonial A. C. Rose Point
E. N. C. Marchan Harlanburg
Ryantown Elder A. C.
Coal-towners Princeton

Games will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The schedule for next week will appear in the Saturday night issue of the News and all the managers are requested to watch the schedule.

The playing rules of this kind of a tourney will be a good thing for independent baseball, as it will afford a means of playing for the championship rather than claiming it on the strength of seasons records. All of the teams in the league have their own playing fields.

Johnny Farrell Upsets Dutra In P. G. A. Tourney

(International News Service)
MILWAUKEE, Aug. 11.—Having tumbled the defending title holder, Olin Dutra, in a sizzling match, Johnny Farrell of New York today squared away against Johnny Golden, the Noroton, Conn., veteran in the quarter final matches of the national professional golf championship.

Other survivors of the par-shattered second round matches at the Blue Mound Country Club who advanced to the quarter finals today were Gene Sarazen of Miami, Jimmy Hines of New York, the co-medalist, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., Willie Googin, Selada Beach, Cal., Tom Creavy of Albany, Albany, N. Y., and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.

Farrell flashed the inspired technique of his national open victory over Bobby Jones in 1928 as he re-pulsed a determined stand by the defending champion. Farrell defeated Dutra one up on the 36th hole after the Easterner had Dutra five down on the twenty-eighth green. Dutra's last putt, a 25 footer that would have squared the match just rimmed the cup.

Yarosz And Dundee Must Report Five Days Before Bout

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 11.—Taking no chances on any injury reports causing another postponement of promising Teddy Yarosz-Vince Dundee bout for the middleweight championship, the Pennsylvania State Boxing Commission Wednesday ordered that Dundee appear in Pittsburgh five days before the match on August 21st and finish his training here under direct supervision of the entire commission.

The Commission was somewhat perturbed because Max Waxman, Dundee's manager, caused a postponement of the fight first scheduled for July 24th claiming Dundee had suffered a sprained ankle in training.

Commissioner Harvey Boyle of Pittsburgh went to Philadelphia for the meeting of the entire board of commissioners as the Yarosz-Dundee match is deemed the most important to be held in Pennsylvania for years.

The commissioners are taking a personal interest in seeing that the bout lives up to the high expectations aroused by its first announcement, that the two leading middleweights, both with impressive records of more than 65 victories a piece, would meet at the Forbes Field Ball Park of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club.

Stock Market Puts In Dull And Uninspiring Appearance Today

PIVOTAL LEADERS
SLIGHTLY LOWER

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The stock market presented a dull and uninspiring appearance today as prices moved irregularly lower in featureless trading.

Opening slightly lower a sharp rally took place in the first 30 minutes of trading and then the list turned quiet with prices tending to move lower.

The pivotal leaders were for the most part under last night's close with United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, and Case showing fractional losses.

The speculators for the advance found little encouragement from the commodity markets where wheat lost more than 2 cents a bushel and cotton more than 50 cents a bale.

Railroad shares were generally easy.

Utility shares were distinctly heavy on further selling of American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., and Consolidated Gas.

The farm stocks were sluggish and heavy in sympathy with the poor tone of the commodity markets.

Trading was much slower than yesterday and the day before with the list standing still for minutes at a time.

LAY CORNERSTONE OF POST OFFICE

Crowd Witnesses Special Ceremony On Seventh Street Thursday Morning

Remainder Of Day's Celebration Is Called Off
Due To Inclement
Weather

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11.—Despite the inclement weather Thursday morning a large crowd turned out for the parade and the special ceremony for the laying of the cornerstone in Ellwood City's new post office. When the rain still continued to come down at 1:30, the remainder of the day's celebration was called off until next Wednesday.

Parade Held
A big parade was held at 10 a. m. It formed on Line avenue in the fourth ward and was ready to start at the shriek of the fire siren. It was an automobile parade of all types of cars, including floats and trucks. All stores in the city closed at this hour.

The parade led by the Italian band and the local Legion bugle and drum corps went down Line avenue to Ewing Park, across the toll bridge, up Fountain avenue, south on Fifth street, and west on Lawrence avenue to Seventh street. It disbanded at the P. & L. E. parking grounds.

All then proceeded to the new post office on the corner of Seventh street and Crescent avenue for the special ceremonies in the laying of the cornerstone. The ceremonies began at 11 o'clock sharp as scheduled. A large crowd braved the rain in rain coats, slickers, and umbrellas to hear this. A loud speaker system had been installed for the occasion.

Dedicate Flag
Burgess Judd C. Turner, who was general chairman of the day's celebration, presided as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Fr. D. A. Wilkey, pastor of St. Agatha Catholic church, opened the exercises by pronouncing the invocation. This was followed with the dedication of the flag by the local American Legion. The flag which came from Pope Pius, was hoisted for the occasion by Major Stewart, government construction engineer, and was presented by him to Burgess Turner for the city. The burgess in turn turned it over to Commander Paul Cartwright for the Legion dedication which was one of the most impressive events ever seen here.

The flag was hoisted to the top of a large flag pole, which had just been installed the day before, to the strains of the national anthem. This was preceded with a short prayer by the post chaplain.

Distinguished Visitor
Before the principal address of the day was delivered by Congressman J. Howard Swick, Burgess Turner introduced several prominent persons present on this occasion. Among them were State Senator Batchelor of Monaca, Congressman Swick of Beaver Falls, State Representative William McElwee, Postmaster Edward A. P. Christley, former postmaster, B. N. DeFrance, and Postmaster White of New Wilmington.

The speaker of the day then rendered a short and to the point address. He stated that cornerstone gives character to a building and is one of its chief stones. The construction of the postoffice shows the faith of the country in its people and also the returning faith of the American people in its government. He brought attention to the smoke from the local factory chimneys and stated that it was a sign of America's faith in herself. Congressman Swick pointed out that he had secured seven postoffices in the district during his term in office.

Lay Cornerstone
The sealed copper box which bore in it about 50 documents of civic, fraternal and religious organizations, and historical facts of the city, was exhibited by Burgess Turner. The box was then given to Postmaster Christley who placed it in the cavity of the cornerstone which he later sealed. Silver trowels were given to Postmaster Christley, former Postmaster DeFrance, and Burgess Turner. Mr. Turner will give his trowel to the local historical society.

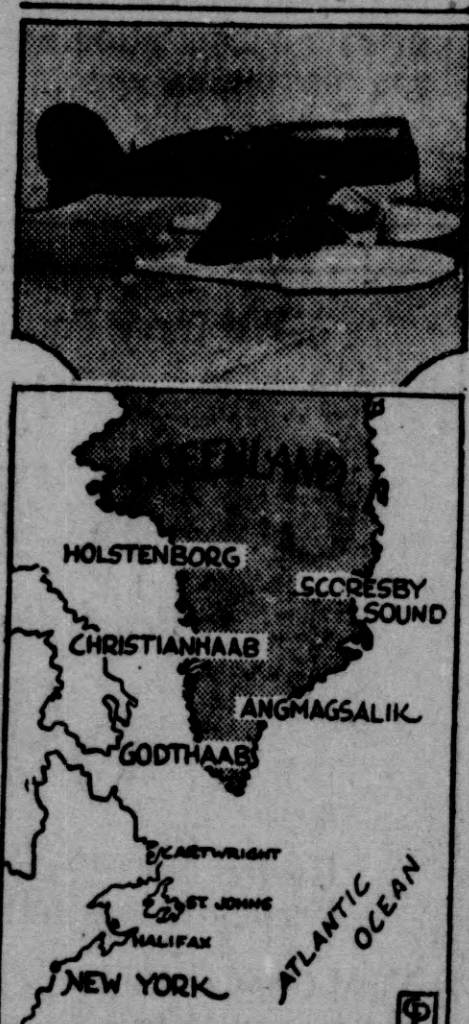

The stone bore the following inscriptions: Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, Perry K. Heath, assistant secretary, James A. Wetmore, acting supervising architect, L. H. and H. H. Thayer, architects, 1932.

The exercises closed with the benediction by the Rev. J. R. Routledge, chaplain of the local legion post.

Picnic Next Wednesday
The remainder of the community picnic which was to follow the ceremonies at the postoffice was postponed until next Wednesday, according to an announcement issued by Burgess Turner this morning. Further announcements and details will appear later.

Where Mail May Land

Lindbergh reveals that he has found three suitable landing places on each side of Greenland, as a result of the pathfinding Arctic flight which he and Mrs. Lindbergh have been making. brate the occasion of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Wells. The event proved to be a complete surprise to the honor guest but he entertained the guests in a pleasing manner. Outdoor games of a wide variety furnished the amusements for the younger folks while music and singing were the principal pastimes for the older ones. A welcome addition to the evening was the serving of a tasty luncheon by Mrs. Roy McDanel, Mrs. E. E. Gallaher, Mrs. Rose Crans and Mrs. Wells. HUNT CLUB COMBINES

HORSES WITH AUTOS

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 11.—Officials of the Multnomah Hunt Club refuse to be without their horses even when they take automobile rides. Trailers have been built to carry their mounts when they drive into the mountains.

Coming to a choice part of the scenery, they take the horses from their mounted stalls and ride them, forsaking the mechanical horsepower until the long jaunt home is started with "Dobbin" in tow.

A free country is one in which a chosen leader can do the will of the people if the Supreme Court doesn't forbid it.

A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess at a later hour assisted by Mrs. Robert Morris. The club will meet again in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Meisel on Line avenue.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS

The chances are that the vast machinery set up to refinance farm mortgages in the interest of the debtor will never do all that was expected of it. It appears more likely just now that a mutual recovery in farm incomes which means interest-paying power, will be the chief influence in restoring order in the farm mortgage field.

Neither the farm mortgage relief laws nor the similar schemes for aiding the home owner with mortgage trouble have worked well so far. The trouble is a very simple one. It lies in the fact that everybody wants a mortgage that is good, and nobody wants the "cats and dogs."

The government starts out with the idea that there are many mortgages that are not keeping up payments which the mortgagee will be happy to sell to the government at a discount, in order to get cash or bonds on which the government guarantees interest. It is not expected that lenders with good security will sell, nor that the government will take over loans that are not reasonably good.

But it appears that the first class of mortgages is unexpectedly small, and the second and third classes unexpectedly large. Holders of mortgages that are reasonably promising—that is, where the farmer looks as if he could get on his feet, or where the farm itself is certainly worth the amount of the loan—are not offering their loans for conversion at all. The third class, the cats and dogs, even a very lenient Federal Land bank can't be expected to take over.

On the whole, therefore, little farm mortgage business is being done, compared with what some people expected, and the same applies to the home loan administration which means little progress.

are closed or running under restriction.

Here is a case where the lender is himself, or itself, in trouble. The bank is anxious to convert its frozen loans into cash or good bonds, even at a loss. In the rare case where the bank is unwilling, pressure can be applied from above. Unfreezing the assets of the depositors, even at a heavy loss has compensating advantages to the community.

The result is that in this particular section of the field, very good progress has been made, and the restricted banks of Wisconsin, Iowa, South Carolina and one or two other states are in progress of thawing. It is a really good idea.

I do not mean to infer that no other loans are being scaled down and converted. The Federal Land banks are doing considerable business, and will do more when the new basis of appraisals is better understood. The law fixes the new loan basis at 50 per cent of what it calls the "normal value" of the land.

"That 'normal value' is a term new in real estate language, and just what it means is something that nobody quite knows. Your guess is as good as anybody's. Presumably it is what the farm would sell for in normal times. But that only brings up the question: when were times 'normal'?"

Altogether, it is a good deal of a mess. But some progress is being made. And at the worst it looks as if we should get some country banks defrosted and opened again.

Girl Saves Life Of Snake Victim

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 11.—William K. Evans, Ohio State University sophomore, is recovering from a rattlesnake bite, thanks to a Cleveland girl camper whose name he does not know.

Evans was bitten on the right hand near Rome, Ashtabula county, near Cardinal Lake. No doctor was within miles, but Evans and his friend found some girl campers from Cleveland. One girl had first aid training and she cut around the fang wound in Evans' hand and sucked the wound clean.

Evans was brought to the Youngstown hospital, where physicians said the girl's action saved his life.

Foresters Taught Subjects That Relate To Woods—Get Movie Treat

Special To The News
CAMP LOWELL THOMAS, CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS, Trout Run, Pa., Aug. 11.—A forestry school, sponsored by the Pennsylvania department of forests and waters, has been inaugurated in this mountain camp with State Forester John C. Mueller in charge.

Approximately 75 students attended the opening lecture.

Speaking to the boys last Tuesday night, the opening night, Forester Mueller told the group that "forestry is the continual, raising of timber on land not suitable for growing crops." He said that "our forests and associated resources must become more and more socialized both by increased private and public ownership. The progress of the movement depends on public enlightenment."

Mr. Mueller described to the boys poison ivy, shumack, snake bites and other dangers of the woods. He will speak on the different species of trees next week.

Motion pictures, provided by the department of forests and waters, were shown to the shows last Monday night. It was titled "The A. B. and C. of Forestry." Another reel, showing the production of cotton was also shown. A comedy reel climaxed the show treat. They were "talkies" and not silent films.

CAMP THOMAS BRIEFS
Many of the boys are planning a trip home over Labor Day.

"Bub" Jones and Johnny Brooks are planning a trip home shortly. It has been raining here for a week, and it's like fall.

Frank Bowers killed a rattlesnake yesterday. He's very proud of it. It's great to take a hot bath here—the new showers are swell!

Last week a department store in Williamsport gave a dinner for its employees, and after the dinner the manager asked them how they enjoyed the meat. "Fine," they shouted. And so he announced to them that it was rattlesnake meat.

Here's the first bear story—Several New Castle boys were cutting fire lines on the mountain side. When, all of a sudden a cub bear strolled up to the side of Bill McKay. The bear moved away quickly when he saw the commotion—but Whitey Ecklund was so excited he climbed a tree to escape it.

JEANNETTE, Pa., Aug. 11.—Four local youths, William Schrock, 19; Carl Zelanchosky, 18; Jerome Scott, 17, and Harry Kratochvil, 18, known locally as "The Forty Thieves," arrested by the state police in connection with a long list of minor robberies and shopliftings, entered pleas of guilty before Judge Charles D. Copeland, and were paroled for two years.

Scant and Schrock were paroled upon payment of the costs, and all four were given a suspended sentence for two years.

BREAD LINES ARE GROWING THINNER

ONE of the gratifying signs of the times comes in the announcement that the bread lines of the nation are growing thinner. A survey of the states in connection with unemployment relief funds brings good news. A few of them, such as North Dakota, Nebraska, Texas, Montana, Arizona and Florida, report higher expenditures in this regard because of poor crops, the drought or plagues of grasshoppers; but nearly all the others present a brighter picture.

In Virginia the unemployed fell from 125,000 to 35,000, with a reduction in unemployment relief from $1,173,000 to $871,569 in three months. Connecticut decreased its total by 25 per cent and Michigan by 15 per cent. Pennsylvania is spending $750,000 less than in a previous period; Illinois has cut its relief funds about 25 per cent; and Wisconsin, Kentucky and West Virginia all show improved conditions. And so it goes with most of the other states not mentioned. All this has been brought about by the increase in employment in these commonwealths. Naturally the figures fluctuate; but, as the improvement seems to be going on, we should have a still brighter story to tell in the fall of the year.

We shall have a large problem with us for some time to come, and it is certain that we shall have large numbers of the hungry and the unemployed to look after during the coming winter. But the decided turn in the tide make it less terrifying than it has been in the last two or three winters.

JAPAN AND AMERICA

Roy W. Howard, newspaper publisher, who has just returned from an extensive visit in the Orient during which he made a survey of conditions in Japan, believes that the United States should, without delay, build up its navy to full treaty strength.

Mr. Howard is not a militarist. His views as reflected through his newspapers have bordered on pacifism. He has been a strong supporter of world peace and of proposals promising to promote this.

His advocacy of a strong navy, therefore, is significant. It doesn't mean that he believes there is immediate danger of war between the United States and Japan. It does mean he wants the country to be prepared to protect its interests.

"The last two years have demonstrated," he said in urging a treaty-strength navy, "that so far as the Far East is concerned, America's efforts to substitute reason for force in international disagreements were premature. This conclusion is inescapable, though there is no disgrace attached to the failure which, in the final analysis, resulted from Europe's failure to cooperate."

He said he found that Japanese leaders "are as sincerely desirous of peace as is America." Leaders are not always able to control conditions, though, and he saw a background of danger in Japan.

"The fact is that the Japanese public has become convinced that America is too penurious to fight," he said. "In that misconception lies real danger. The gravity of the situation is tempered only by the fact that it results from differing psychology, rather than from clashing fundamentals."

He found in Japan a belief that the United States was "turning toward pacifism in consequence of feminine suffrage," and that because of the public demand for tax reduction it "is facing military impotence."

This condition is one fraught with danger, especially since American and Japanese interests run so closely together at home points.

Japanese politicians, he said, would see no offense in America's building its fleet up to full treaty strength. They do not want war with the United States and they would regard this action as supplying "insurance against any unfortunate incident" which might be precipitated by short-sighted militarists.

Mr. Howard's observations are in line with those made by other observers. Japan plainly has indicated she has no intention of curtailing her navy under the limits of the London treaty. Moreover, she has demanded a greater ratio than that now permitted her. For the United States to allow its navy to remain in an inferior state, would be a big mistake.

CLOSING THE GAP

The releasing of $115,513,610 of federal construction funds for national and local projects, with insistence by the president that the latter be got under way as quickly as possible, means an early boost in purchasing power. The effect should be to strengthen the foundations of the national recovery program.

The fact that the president and his advisers recognize the importance of getting construction work going without delay probably means that further allotments soon will be forthcoming. Comparatively little work yet has been started under the recovery act.

The gap between consumption and production must be narrowed if the government's hope of an early restoration of prosperity is to be realized. Retail sales, according to the latest figures, are not keeping pace with increased production. This condition gives no cause for alarm. It may be due to several factors. Persons long out of employment and who have had to go into debt while waiting for things to "open up", are likely, on regaining work, to use their surplus funds in paying their debts rather than for the purchase of unnecessary articles.

Many persons, too, have been practicing rigid economy so long that it has become a habit with them. Only gradually will they break themselves of it and go into the market for luxuries and other articles not absolutely necessary to their existence. It required time for them to become adjusted to the practice of self-denial and it will require time for them to return to a more normal level of living.

With work plentiful and fair wages prevailing, there will be little need for further incentive to increased buying—provided prices remain within reasonable bounds. The billions the government has authorized to be expended in giving work to the idle constitutes a back log of purchasing power that will be felt when this money begins to get into circulation. It is important, though, that no unnecessary time be lost in doing this.

There doesn't seem to have been any crop reduction in the Hollywood divorce belt.

The chief advantage of being honest and decent is that you can do it without buying protection.

Nature is prodigal. Think of having 12,000,000 cells in the human brain to keep one idea in solitary confinement.

GIVE ME THE MEADOW LARK

Shelley, who was a poet, lost his heart to the skylark, and wrote a magnificent ode to that slim bird that seeks the upper air and sings to the earth as if he were a disembodied spirit.

Being no poet, though once I thought I was and covered many a clean, white page with measured lines, I prefer the meadow lark that sits on a fence post and pours his rich song over the flat fields and the golden grain.

I have not seen any skylark, nor heard that "blithe spirit" making his shrill delight in the dawn. I have heard the nightingale but once, and that was in a tree at a crossroads in an interval between the thunder of shells and rattle of the machine guns.

But I have seen the neat brown wax-wings congregating in my garden; I have seen the whirl of many blackbirds flying against the sky at sunset, and I have seen the glossy single blackbird with the scarlet flash on his wings brightening the air in a small green valley.

I have not heard that skylark that taught the straining poet, Shelley, that "our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught; our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought." . . . But I have heard that modest meadow lark, in whose song is no hint of pain or melancholy and no reminders of the brevity of life and the tears that lurk behind the smiles.

So, somehow, I prefer the song I know to the song I have not heard. I prefer that minstrel of the fence-post to the angelic singer of the skies, as I prefer the common fellow who is tortured by ambition to the brilliant lad who will climb over his fellows to achieve his shining goal. As I prefer the understanding heart to the brilliant mind. As I prefer those who struggle gallantly to those who conquer easily.

I'll take the friendly singer, I'll take the meadow lark, singing in the full sun of life.

CONRADESHIP

At the first tournament of the country club season a certain member, upon meeting another for the first time since last Fall, was heard to remark: "One of the most important reasons why I belong to this country club is the fine spirit of give and take, the banter and comradeship which I find here."

Here is a club member who is getting real enjoyment out of his club affiliations.

He likes to mix with people interested in what pleases him. Mutual interest in a certain sport and a spirit of good-natured fairness makes his club members stand out even when they cannot be together.

Art you getting happiness out of your club membership?

Isn't it true that you mingle with about the same crowd in your sport that you do throughout the winter season?

You are a member of a certain little clique, even in your summer sports, and you hold aloof from other members.

Undoubtedly you do know a lot of good fellows in your club. You find them most companionable and interesting.

They may or they may not hold as respectable positions as you.

But they are just as high class fellows as any of those among your most intimate friends, if you'd take time to find out.

APPROACHING INTERSECTIONS

Do not approach an intersection at high speed and depend upon your brakes for a sudden stop. This is not only hard on your tires and brakes, but is also very often the cause of a rear-end collision with the driver behind you.

Unless you can see perfectly in all directions, approach intersections slowly. When you are sure the way is clear, and not until then, accelerate your speed. This practice will insure your having control over your car when you need it most.

Better Times Seen As Cure For Depression In Marriage

Encouragement Of Family Life And Revision Of Marriage And Divorce Laws Proposed As Desirable Aids To Return To Normalcy

Latest reports from the census bureau, showing a decline in both marriage and divorce, suggest to the public the relation of these records to the depression of recent years. Lack of funds is held responsible for the showing in both the acceptance of marriage responsibilities and their termination. The suggested way of dealing with the subject is revision of the marriage laws of the several states, while it is advised that in the present reconstruction period some provision should be made for encouraging wholesome family life. "People are not buying matrimony any more than they are buying futures, automobiles or diamond tiaras," declares the PORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM. "Marriage isn't what it used to be in many practical, prosaic respects. In the dear, old sentimental days marriages were made by convention, propinquity, considerable perspicacity and about the average percentage of poor judgment mixed with spring and moonlight. They were very differently regarded and approached by one-half of the sketch in the days before that half came into citizenship rights. When one of the unemancipated failed to do her best by herself in the only available avenue of escape from home, it was a serious business. Only the foolish virgins didn't. The other variety trimmed their lamps and if any other portion of the cast of characters became trimmed in the process, it was charged to the Law of Averages. But that was then. This is now. As between a husband and wife and a job—maybe a career—under direct concentration what would be the logical answer to anybody fit to be emancipated? The answer accounts for the drought in marriages.

"If the falling off was due to the depression, and the depression is vanishing," thinks the GLENDALE NEWS-PRESS, "doubtless the difference will be reflected in the marriage license bureau. It is not strange that individuals out of work, working at reduced pay, or clinging with only precarious hold to their jobs, refrain from any serious responsibility that could be avoided. The man who marries without being qualified to support a wife and possibly a family not only is rash but guilty of an offense against society. The burden of caring for the impoverished already has become almost too much to be carried. Among the most senseless of old adages that which says 'two can live as cheap as one.' Perhaps this has misled the unthinking and account for disastrous unions, but, having no basis in truth, it is a poor guide. If times get better this matrimonial slump will pass. Until they are definitely better, the slump will remain as evidence of reasonable caution."

"An all-time low mark was reached last year because of the depression," according to the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR, reviewing the figures for the year: "The number was 931,759 or 79,032 fewer than in 1931. The ratio was 7.9 per thousand of population, as compared with 8.5 for the preceding year. The ratio is based by the census bureau on an estimated population of 124,322,000 the first of this month, while that for 1931 was based on an estimated population of 124,070,000. Only ten states, all in the west and southwest, save West Virginia, reported slight increases in the number of marriages. All these adjoining states which have strict marriage laws. The increase in number of marriages in West Virginia was due largely to the new Ohio law designed to prevent hasty marriages."

"Where's father?" she cried. "Upstairs," her brother replied. "Where's mother, then?" "Down in the basement." "I thought it seemed mighty quiet."

Notables Born This Date—Mahal, born 1922, ex-king, now crown prince of Rumania; Frank P. Walsh, b. 1864, distinguished lawyer and liberal; Ernest Hutcheson, b. 1871, pianist and composer. Francesco Petrarca, b. 1304, one of the earliest and greatest of modern lyric poets, the first of the great humanists of the Renaissance. When he was 23 he first saw Laura, who inspired him with a passion which has become proverbial for its constancy and its purity. She has been identified as the wife of one Hugo de Sade, to whom she had been married two years at the time when Petrarch first met Laura, and who died, the mother of 11 children, 21 years later, but there is no certainty of this. He never ceased to mourn her, exiled himself from Avignon, where she had lived, shunned honors, died in 1374, two days before his 70th birthday.

1577—On this date, according to Richard Hakluyt's Divers Voyages Touching the Discovery of America, the Gospel was first preached in America, at Newfoundland. (The author's cousin, another Richard Hakluyt, was influential in arousing English interest in colonization of the New World. It was in his lodgings, as a result of conversations with him, that his cousin was inspired to make the researches and write the books to which we owe so much of our knowledge of early European voyages to and settlements on this continent.)

1881—Sitting Bull, chief of the Sioux, surrendered at Fort Buford, North Dakota, terminating the war warring out of the invasion of the Black Hills by gold-hunters who chased the Sioux from their hunting-grounds. A great warrior and leader, he had to submit to seeing his proud free race sink to the position of beggars and children, forbidden to trade, forbidden to hunt, debarrued from their traditional and natural amusements like convicts, herded like cattle, condemned to wear the white man's cast off clothing, ordered to farm the land, an occupation for which they were ill-fitted by temperament and experience. He lived peacefully, but with a heavy heart, until 1890, when his people refused to let him be separated from them by the government that was supposed to be his friend and protector. Unarmed, unresisting, he was shot to death by red Indian police members of an enemy tribe, as he pleaded that there be no violence, on Dec. 15, 1890.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

IRRIGATE THE GARDEN WHEN RAINFALL FAILS

This year, as in most years, rainfall threatens to be poorly distributed during the growing season. Artificial means of applying water to the garden sometimes are desirable, when the natural supply fails, if highest quality as well as maximum yields are to be secured.

A few suggestions for irrigating the garden follow:

- (1) Apply water liberally, so that it will soak deeply at each irrigation, and avoid too frequent applications. Frequent waterings, light or heavy, are likely to do more harm than good.
- (2) Apply water as a spray or as a slowly moving stream.
- (3) Late afternoon or evening is the best time for watering.
- (4) Very commonly the garden is watered with a hose. A nozzle to break the stream of water with a spray should be used. There are several types of rotary sprinklers to be set in the garden when attached to a lead of hose; some of these sprinklers will cover an area 50 feet in diameter.

Overhead iron pipes, containing small nozzles at intervals of several feet and supported by iron pipes or wooden posts, sometimes are used in irrigating home gardens. This method is especially popular with market gardeners.

ROGUEING POTATOES IS IMPROVEMENT PRACTICE

Lawrence county potato growers who are following recommended practices of buying disease-free seed annually with which to grow seed for the following year will improve the chances of their stock by roguing out disease in off-type hills.

All growers who make a practice of selling seed potatoes are required to rogue their fields to insure the quality of the seed that they sell.

The most damaging diseases, such as leaf roll, mosaic, and giant hill, are quite easily distinguished and can be quickly rogued out of the seed plot. All weak plants also should be removed when the roguing is done.

Leaf roll can be most easily recognized and rogued out when the plants are about a foot high. Mosaic, shows up to best advantage at mid-season. Giant hill can be detected and rogued out when the vines mature in the fall.

Giant hills always remain green longer than the average healthy plants and often even resist early frosts. Under Pennsylvania conditions 50 to 75 per cent of the tubers grown on giant hill plants will produce leaf roll the following year. One diseased hill may produce 10 diseased hills the following year.

COVER CROPS IMPROVE SOILS THAT ARE NEEEDY

While success depends largely on adequate moisture in late summer, the sowing of a cover crop in corn and truck crops helps materially to increase the organic matter content of the soil, conserve plant food, and prevent the washing and gully of fields.

Late cultivation is seldom beneficial to corn, and the early sowing of the cover crop gives it a good start before the corn takes complete possession of the soil and shades the ground too heavily.

A legume crop always is preferable for the cover crop. Where the soil will grow it well, sweet clover is very satisfactory. The seed is cheap and the crop more likely to succeed than other clovers. Sweet clover, however, should not be plowed down in the spring before it has started growth on account of the danger of its coming up again as a weed in the succeeding crop.

Red clover may be used where the chance for sweet clover is questionable, or a mixture of red and sweet clover may be used. Crimson clover is good in the South, but it is very likely to winter-kill in Pennsylvania. Winter vetch is excellent if thoroughly inoculated, but it seldom is very satisfactory at the first attempt, and if allowed to go to seed it may become a weed in later crops of grain.

Soybeans and cowpeas seldom are successful as cover crops and are killed by the first frost. On account of their large early growth they may rob the crop with which they are grown. Turnips and rape may be useful for pulling or late pasture but are of less value for soil improvement. Rye sown early may rust, but it is the surest and cheapest cover crop of late sowing. It may be sown after the corn is cut and still make a good winter cover.

CAN GARDEN SURPLUS FOR WINTER SUPPLY

Canning time is at hand with the garden rich in string beans, baby beets, beet tops, and Swiss chard. How good these will taste next winter, exclaims Miss Eleanor Drury, home economics extension representative.

A good product can not come out of the can unless a good product is put in. Only fresh young vegetables in prime condition should be stored in air-tight containers, either glass or tin.

Precook vegetables and pack as nearly boiling hot as possible, using additional boiling water, if necessary, to cover vegetables in the containers. Add one teaspoon of salt to a quart for most vegetables. Place jars or cans in hot canner as soon as they are filled. The length of time for processing depends upon the product.

String Beans—Pick over carefully, string, wash thoroughly, and cut into pieces of desired size. Add enough boiling water to cover and boil for three minutes in an uncovered kettle. Pack in containers boiling hot, add one teaspoon of salt to each quart, and cover with boiling water in which beans were boiled. Process immediately.

Peas—In using a pressure cooker start to count the time when the pressure registers 10 pounds and process quart glass jars 35 minutes, pint glass jars 30 minutes, and No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans 30 minutes. In using the hot water bath have the level of the water over the top of the jars and tin cans. Start to count the time after the water boils hard and keep it boiling hard for two hours.

Baby Beets—Only young tender beets should be canned. Wash thoroughly and scald in boiling water of steam until the skins slip easily. Leave on at least one inch of the stems and all of the roots during the cooking to prevent bleeding. Slip off the skins, put into the container, add one teaspoon of salt to a quart, and fill with hot water. Process immediately at 10 pounds pressure quart glass jars 35 minutes, glass pint jars 30 minutes, No. 2 and No. 3 cans 30 minutes, or process in hot water bath for one hour and half.

A canning leaflet giving directions for canning all vegetables and fruits is available, Miss Drury says.

USE MULCH TO SAVE MOISTURE IN GARDEN

To conserve soil moisture and keep down weeds, mulches of straw, manure, leaves, lawn clippings, and sometimes paper are used between the rows of vegetables.

A mulch of straw manure is especially good for celery which requires a continuous supply of moisture and very fertilization. Cucumbers will be much more certain of yielding a good crop of pickles if stable manure is placed between the rows and around the hills as soon as the plants start runners. Straw manure often is used to keep tomato vines and fruits from touching the ground. It also keeps the weeds down, saves cultivation, conserves soil moisture, and usually prevents much blossom and rot.

Views Italian Planes At Erie

Mathew Guntion of Highland avenue who is home for a few days from his summer cottage "Fairview-On-The-Lake" stated today that on a week ago last Wednesday, he witnessed the flight of the Italian Aeroplano fleet as it flew over that district enroute from Chicago to New York. He and the members of his family were especially interested in seeing those aeroplanes in flight because of the fact that H. C. Lord of Erie, his wife's brother, is the inventor of a rubber device used in airplanes for the stabilizing of the delicate instruments and devices used in the navigation of aeroplanes. All the ships of the Italian Air Armada were equipped with this equipment as are hundreds of other ships. It is said to be one of the best of modern improvements for the motorist.

Fatal Accidents Show Increase In State Factories

Seventy-six Persons Killed And 7,303 Injured In State In June

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, July 28.—Seventy-six persons were killed and 7,303 were injured in industrial accidents during June, the bureau of statistics, department of labor and industry, today announced. Compared with the May totals fatal accidents increased 31 per cent and non-fatal injuries 5.8 per cent.

The sharp increase in accidents was attributed not only to constantly increasing employment but also to unusually hot weather which caused heat prostrations and other accidents.

Pointing out that the increase in accidents far exceeded the ratio of additional employment, Miss Charlotte E. Carr, secretary of labor and industry, announced that the department will intensify its accident prevention drive.

Miss Carr has asked representatives of the steel industry in the Pittsburgh district to meet here on August 4 for a conference on safety problems. Similar conferences will be held later with executives of other industries.

Ruling Made On Federal Bonds By Loan Associations

Counsel For Pennsylvania Loan Associations, Says Bonds Will Be Accepted

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Building and loan corporations throughout Pennsylvania will be able to accept bonds of the Federal Home Loan Corporation in lieu of first mortgages, Joseph H. Sundheim, counsel for the Pennsylvania League of Building and Loan Associations, asserted Thursday.

The building and loan code enacted at the 1933 session of the General Assembly gives associations power to accept these bonds, Sundheim said.

Gold Hoarders To Be Exposed

Within Three Weeks Attorney General Cummings Will Publicly Name Hoarders

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, July 28.—Within three weeks Attorney General Cummings will publish the names of deliberate gold hoarders and will start prosecutions of the violators of the presidential gold proclamation.

Cummings said Thursday he had ordered J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation, to speed the investigation of the gold hoarding situation.

After going through the entire list of names of suspects submitted by the treasury Hoover will make a final check of those who have refused to turn in gold and then action will be started, Cummings said.

Noted Drivers To Be On Schedule

Russel Snowberger, who finished eighth in the Indianapolis grind this year; Al Aspen, Philadelphia veteran; Johnny Hammon, sensation of the eastern dirt tracks; Doc Mackenzie, who was forced out of the 500 mile race at Indianapolis when he threw a wheel after driving 496 miles; and Malcolm Fox, who figured in two recent smashups on the Indianapolis track.

Belated Reward For Life Saving

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—It's great to be a hero, but it's better to know your efforts were appreciated. Thirty years ago, or back in 1903 William Mitchell, of Havre de Grace saved the life of Benjamin Harman deceased Philadelphia fur dealer. In his will which disposed of a $30,500 estate, Harman set aside a $5,000 sum for the man who rescued him from drowning.

BIRTHS SHOW BIG GAIN OVER DEATHS

New Castle had a high birth rate during April, the figures of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the Pennsylvania Department of Health show, the birth rate being far in excess of the death rate for the month. There were 107 live births recorded for a rate of 26.1 per thousand population. Only four other cities or boroughs over 25,000 population showed a higher rate. During the same month, there were only 39 deaths, for a rate of 9.5 per thousand, considerably smaller than most other cities.

Nations Of World Watching U. S. And Recovery Program

Senator Couzens, Back From Conference Says All Nations Are Interested

(International News Service) NEW YORK, July 28.—The nations of the world, with the exception of the gold bloc countries, feel considerable confidence and hope in the American recovery program. U. S. Senator James Couzens, Republican, of Michigan, one of the delegates to the World Economic Conference in London, declared Thursday upon his return aboard the liner George Washington.

"While every delegate was in the frame of mind of watchful waiting to see the outcome of the admitted experiment, most of the nations were hopeful and expressed considerable confidence in the plan of President Roosevelt," Senator Couzens said. "The gold bloc nations were somewhat skeptical. They all, however, were willing to admit the good faith of the president."

Anticipating higher prices for coal next winter many citizens have already started to have their coal cellars filled. As a result coal dealers are experiencing better business than is usual at this time of year. It is figured that with wage raises now being made in the coal regions it will inevitably mean higher prices next winter. Indications are that coal from country banks will also be in good demand.

INDICT CHICAGOANS ON RACKETEER CHARGES

Chicago Pushes Battle On Crime

Deputy Sheriffs Seeking To Round Up 24 Indicted Among Leaders

GANGS ANSWER BY ASSASSINATION

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 28.—Defying the police war against crime, four gunmen early today shot and killed Thomas Fredinoro, 27, alias Tony Rocco, a known gangster, in a North Side bar room.

Fredinoro had a police record that dated back to 1927. He was arrested Tuesday night on a minor charge.

Chicago, July 28.—While authorities pushed forward the war against crime on all fronts today, deputy sheriffs were rounding up the first of 24 persons indicted by a grand jury in a blanket grand jury indictment charging a gigantic racketeering conspiracy.

At Springfield Gov. Henry Horner launched the state on a determined offensive against crime and kidnappings particularly as sheriffs, police chiefs and state attorneys from all parts of the state gathered for the governor's crime conference.

Gov. Horner will address the meeting of police officials, outlining his campaign for a concentrated movement to combat organized criminals. The governor said special attention will be given to the kidnapping menace.

Three Under Arrest

Three of the defendants named with Capone in the grand jury indictment charging conspiracy to throttle trade by bombings, strikes, sluggings and acid-throwing were under arrest today as deputy sheriffs, armed with capias, rounded up the men.

In addition to Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney who was arrested in that city, authorities here seized Sam Feldman and Jerry Donovan. They were held in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond set for each of the 24 defendants.

Alderman Oscar F. Nelson, a Chicago labor leader named in the indictment, was said to be in Europe.

Dr. Benjamin Squares, University of Chicago lecturer, communicated with prosecutors here and gained permission to surrender after he had arranged bond.

Police officials began a nationwide search for Murray Humphreys, so-called successor to Al Capone, who was named as a major defendant. Humphreys is a fugitive from a federal indictment charging income tax evasion.

State's Attorney Thomas Courtney said he would press for the arraignment of all the defendants, including Capone, within 60 days.

Arrest Three For Using Dynamite

Constable Mee And State Police Round Up Three Young Men

Edward Cwynar, 19, Joseph Kolovick, 18, and John Krusick, 19, all of R. D. 7, New Castle were sent to the county jail for 15 days yesterday by Alderman James Brice. They were charged with malicious mischief. They were arrested by Constable Art Mee and state police along the West Pittsburgh road.

According to the state police the youths were using dynamite to blow apart steel castings along the road, several shots it is said were touched off Wednesday evening and on Thursday morning Constable Mee heard the explosions and upon investigation found the "shooting" under way. He made an arrest. State police were called and the constable and officers rounded up the other two young men.

They planned, it is reported by state police, to sell the pieces for scrap.

The place where the explosions occurred is near the dump, and adjacent to the highway.

Mention Couzens As Treasury Head

Many Would Urge President Roosevelt To Give Treasury Post To Michigan Senator

Woodin Is Likely To Resign After Conference With Roosevelt At Hyde Park

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The return of Senator James Couzens, Detroit multimillionaire, from his service at the London economic conference, today incited reports of his possible appointment as a non-partisan secretary of the treasury to succeed the ailing William H. Woodin.

The appointment of Couzens as Woodin's successor—whenever the latter retires—will be urged upon President Roosevelt by several congressional leaders, particularly from the group of independent Republicans who voted for the Democratic nominee last November. His selection, however, was certain to provoke bitter opposition from the regular patronage-seeking Democratic chiefs, who have been complaining for months about the paucity of jobs.

Woodin Is Ill.

Woodin has been ill for the past six weeks. He was expected to confer with Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park sometime next week, when the president goes to his old home for a short rest. It may be this conference will produce his resignation.

Friends of Couzens, who will urge his appointment, will rely upon the senator's vast knowledge of fiscal affairs and the president's apparent confidence in his ability.

On the other hand, Democratic leaders will want the treasury post to go to a loyal Democrat. As one Democratic senator said: "We won't stand for Couzens, no matter how much we admire his ability. The secretary of the treasury must be able to raise campaign funds and Jim Couzens, while he might contribute a fortune, wouldn't raise us one cent. And, any way, we are sore because there are too many Republicans in high places and we can't get jobs for our own fellows."

Newbold, desertion; John Ciccarelli from Asunta Ciccarelli, cruelty; Sarah L. Eberstadt from Lindley Eberstadt, desertion.

Decrees in divorce were handed down by Judge R. L. Hildebrand as follows:—Victor Kovula from Katri Kovula, cruelty; Sophia S. Moore from Aaron G. Moore, cruelty; Anna Babiarz from John A. Babiarz, desertion; Florence McConahy from Edwin McConahy, desertion; Hazel M. Miller from Clyde A. Miller, cruelty, and Theresa M. Rice from Walter P. Rice, desertion.

Highway Work Here Will Be Increased, More Jobs Provided

Approval at Harrisburg of the new allocation of funds for the state highway department is expected to bring a call for new road workers during the coming week. H. W. Lightner, local state highway department superintendent, informed Superintendent R. L. Meermans of the state's cooperative employment office today.

Mr. Meermans has asked workmen holding "work cards" numbering under 900 to report to the Y at 8:30 Saturday morning, at which time several new jobs will be assigned.

PRIZES AWARDED DURING EVENING

Favored by the weatherman, Lawrence county bankers frolicked to their hearts' content Thursday afternoon and evening when the first summer outing of the Lawrence County Bankers association took place at the New Castle Field club. Nearly 50 bank directors and officers and guests participated.

Opened with golf in the afternoon, the festivities, kept as informal as could be, continued through with a dinner in the clubhouse dining room and a spontaneous program later.

A large number of the 50 had clubs in hand when the tee-off occurred early in the afternoon. Other diversions were provided those who did not play.

At the evening's dinner, Phil Chambers received the prize for the low gross net score and E. B. Hawkins the prize for the low net score. Attorney W. K. Hugas was also presented a gift for having the least number of putts.

The prizes, each presented by Attorney W. J. Caldwell, were a supply of golf balls.

After the presentations came short talks by Robert C. Love, Thomas F. Morehead, Captain T. Arthur Smith, golf club pro; E. E. McGill, W. F. Moody, W. H. Gillespie, Attorney Hugas and James Smith, Sr.

The outing arrangements were handled by the association's executive committee, headed by President Joel S. McKee, and two special committee members, Thomas H. Hartman, and Thomas Morehead.
